

INTERVENTION WILL NOT BE PERMITTED STATE THE ALLIES

BALKAN NATIONS AND GREECE FIRM IN THEIR DETERMINATION TO CONTROL THE SITUATION.

TURKS IN SORE STRAIT

European Powers Anxiously Waiting the Results of the Last Stand by "Sick Man of Europe."

London, Eng., Nov. 4.—The Balkan nations and Greece are persistent in their determination that Turkey must arrange directly with them the terms of peace without the intervention of the European powers. This attitude is emphasized in the statement from official sources, which says: "The Turkish proposal of peace is satisfactory in so far as it shows a desire to prevent further bloodshed."

As regards foreign intervention, however, there seems to be no chance of the Balkan states listening to any foreign counsels while treating for the arrangement of conditions of peace. These must be settled between the Balkan states and Turkey directly.

Seeks Aid.
The Turkish ambassador here has been directed by the Ottoman government to inform Great Britain of Turkey's willingness to receive assistance in bringing about a suspension of hostilities with a view of arriving at a peace settlement.

Tewfik Pasha immediately on receipt of the communication from Constantinople, went to the foreign office and conferred with Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, for two hours.

Those powers thus far consulted have responded to Turkey's appeal for mediation by declaring that they could make only proposals for peace and could not approach the Balkan nations with a request for an armistice.

Some of the governments have pointed out that Turkey's proposal for a cessation of hostilities—in other words an armistice—would offend the Balkan victory. Other governments take the position that it would be an infringement of international law for the moment.

That war must, therefore, continue and the Turkish armies which have been beaten, must keep on with their unequalled struggle against the victorious invaders. It is hoped, and believed still that the "powers" will soon find a formula under which they can offer their good offices.

France Refused.
Paris, Nov. 4.—The French government has refused the Turkish government's appeal for it to take the initiative in bringing about an intervention of the powers to stop hostilities and impose an armistice on the Balkan states.

Not to Intervene.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—Germany and Austria will not intervene in the Balkan war without a request to take such a step coming direct from one of the belligerents. The German foreign office has received no confirmation of the report that Turkey has asked the powers to mediate.

Italy Anxious.
Berlin, Nov. 4.—The Italian foreign minister, Marquis Di San Giuliano, has arrived here and has had several conferences with the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethman-Holweg. Those were primarily intended to deal with the general relations of Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy, but are being devoted almost exclusively to the question of intervention in the Balkan war.

Many Prisoners.
Belgrade, Nov. 4.—A batch of prisoners, numbering 1,360, chiefly Albanian tribesmen and other irregulars captured by the Serbian troops in Macedonia, arrived here today under escort. They presented a pitiable sight. All of them were barefooted and in rags and almost starving.

Germany Active.
Kiel, Germany, Nov. 4.—The German armored cruiser Goeben sailed this morning by way of Skagen and the protective Breslau will follow this afternoon by way of Kiel canal. The Goeben is to go to Constantinople and the Breslau to Smyrna. The cruiser Yavuz has left Corfu for Constantinople, the Hertha for Saloniki, and the Geier for Haifa. Rear Admiral Trummer has been placed in command of the German warships in Turkish waters.

Bulgarians Active.
Vienna, Nov. 4.—Every nerve is being strained by the Bulgarian commanders to hasten the fall of Adrianople according to Lieut. Wagner telegraphing to the Reichspost, today from the Bulgarian headquarters.

The desire of the Bulgarians is to release their siege guns for eventual use on the Turkish lines at Tchaatalja.

The power of resistance of the Turkish works at Adrianople, Lieut. Wagner says, diminishes visibly day by day.

BUILDINGS ON FARM IN HAPPY HOLLOW BURNED.

Fire Destroyed All Buildings With Exception of House on Goldberg Farm Near Afton.

Afton, Nov. 4.—Fire which broke out about six o'clock this morning on the Goldberg farm, about two miles from Afton in Happy Hollow, destroyed all the farm buildings with the exception of the house. The blaze is thought to have started in the hay or grain stored in one of the barns, and it spread rapidly to the other buildings. Neighbors assisted in fighting the flames and prevented the house from burning. Of the live stock, only one hog was lost. Details of the fire are meagre.

DOMINICAN INSURRECTOS ATTACK MONTE CHRISTI.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Nov. 4.—Monte Christi, on the north coast of the Dominican republic has been attacked by revolutionists. The defenders put up a stout resistance and the fighting which occurred was of a desperate nature.

OLD FIRE CAPTAIN DIED SUDDENLY IN OSHKOSH.

Oshkosh, Nov. 4.—The death of John Winstanley, which took place suddenly Saturday afternoon while he was on duty at fire engine house No. 8, of which he was captain, removed a man who had been in service for 30 years.

Taft Gives Reasons For Asking the People's Vote.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

The Republican party is entitled to support in this campaign because it is a party fit to govern. It is the party through which substantially all the progress and development in our country's history in the last fifty years has been finally effected. As Senator Root well said at Chicago: "The Republican party is not a mere fortuitous collection of individuals, but is a coherent and living force as an organization."

The Republican party refuses to make changes simply for the purpose of making a change, and cultivating popular hope that in the change something beneficial, undefined, will take place. It still believes it is possible in this world that the fruits of energy, courage, enterprise, attention to duty, hard work, thrift, providence, restraint of appetite and of passions will continue to have their reward under our present system, and that laziness, lack of attention, lack of industry, the yielding to appetite and passion, carelessness, dishonesty, and disloyalty will ultimately find their own punishment in the world here. We do not deny that there are exceptions, and that seeming fortune follows wickedness and misfortune virtue, but, on the whole, we are optimists and believe that the rule is the other way. We do not know any way to avoid human injustice except to perfect our laws for administering justice, to develop the morality of the individual, to give direct supervision and aid to those who are or are likely to be, oppressed, and to give as full scope as possible to individual effort and its rewards. We do not believe that we can reach a millennium by a sudden change in all our existing institutions. We believe that we have made progress from the beginning until now, and that the progress is to continue into the far future; that it is reasonable progress that experience has shown to be really useful and helpful, and from which there is no reaction to something worse.

TRACED RYAN'S TRIP ABOUT THE COUNTRY

Letters Introduced in Trial of Alleged Dynamiters to Show Movements of Bridgeworkers' President.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—Frank M. Ryan's trip about the country, which the government charges were made partly in connection with explosions while he was president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, were traced in letters produced at the dynamite conspiracy trial today. One letter written by John J. McNamara, the alleged dynamiter, to Ryan, referred to an advertisement offered for publication in the Iron Workers' union magazine. This advertisement announced a reward for information about the finding of dynamite on a job in Cleveland, Ohio, in February, 1908. McNamara wrote Ryan that "to refuse the advertisement would make it appear as if the union was trying to shield somebody." Ryan, replying from Baltimore, advised McNamara to publish the offer of a reward. A contracting firm in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, offered the reward after the union had called a strike against it. Work of the firm later was blown up.

CONNECTICUT LEAGUE HAD VERY PROSPEROUS SEASON

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 4.—Club owners of the Connecticut Baseball League rounded up here today to dispose of all business matters relating to the season just closed and to discuss plans for the future. The organization had a prosperous season this year and there is some talk of increasing the circuit next season from six clubs to eight clubs. Applications for membership have been received from New London and New Britain, Conn., and Pittsfield, Mass.

COUNTY TO RAISE $83,444 IN STATE TAXES THIS YEAR

Amount is Over $20,000 Less Than Was Raised Last Year—Charge for Janesville Reassessment, $2,851, Included.

Rock county will raise $83,444.94 in state taxes this year, according to the statement received from the secretary of state's office by County Clerk H. V. Lee. This is over $20,000 less than the amount apportioned to the county in 1911.

As a result of the remittance of taxes made by the state administration there will be no assessment against the county for the university, the normal schools or for the new capital. By far the largest item is the common school levy, which is $51,770. The state highway item is next with $10,127.

A special item included in the statement is the cost of the reassessment proceedings against the city of Janesville, which is $2,851, and interest $55. This item will be charged back to the city although it is included on the county apportionment statement.

Following is the statement as received from the secretary of state: Interest on certificate of indebtedness $4,559.43 Graded schools $4,840.30 For common schools $51,770.44 For state highways $10,127.57 Total $74,270.14

Special Charges.

Janesville Reassessment.

Reassessment proceedings, city of Janesville $2,859.50 City of Janesville, interest $55.05 Total $2,914.55

Other Items.

School district loans, total for county $1,624.46 Grand total $83,444.94

FIRST CANDY EXHIBITION IS OPENED AT NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 4.—A Candy Show, said to be the first exhibition of its kind ever held in this country, opened today in Madison Square Garden, and will hold the boards there during the remainder of this week. The show is under the auspices of the organized retail bakers and confectioners of New York. The chief object is to demonstrate to the public the cleanliness and sanitary precautions employed in the manufacture of confectionery. In addition, the exhibition shows the processes in the manufacture of bakery products, ice cream and soda water.

CLERKS AND STENOGRAPHERS OF RAILROAD MAY STRIKE

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 4.—A strike which may affect 5,000 clerks and stenographers, employed at the various stations and offices of the Canadian Pacific railway, began today. President Mosher of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, the organization of office and station workers, said its members would be on strike throughout the system by noon and that the men at nearly all the small stations already were out.

BISHOP GARRETT REACHES HIS EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 4.—Rev. Alexander C. Garrett, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Dallas and one of the most widely known churchmen of the Southwest, celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary today. Bishop Garrett was born in Ireland and received his education at Trinity College, Dublin. He came to America in 1859 and for ten years was engaged in missionary work in British Columbia. Prior to his election as missionary bishop of Northern Texas in 1874 he had filled rectorships in San Francisco and Omaha.

POSSIBILITY OF A DEADLOCK BROKEN

Death of Representative Utter of Rhode Island, Solve Question of Possible Deadlock Over President.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The death of Representative George H. Utter of Rhode Island, apparently, breaks the deadlock in which the house of representatives would find itself if it were called upon to elect a president.

Rhode Island was one of the states in which the delegation was equally divided, and Utter's death, should his place be filled by a republican to fill out the remainder of his term, would throw Rhode Island to the democratic column.

Throwing Rhode Island to the democratic column, however, would not permit an election by the house because the constitution requires a majority of the states. This would be 25. Mr. Utter's death, however, does break the equal division between republican and democrats.

EXTEND SEARCH FOR MISSING PHYSICIAN

Railroad Men Asked to Search Cars For Body of Gibson City Doctor, Who Disappeared in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Search for Dr. W. R. Ely, of Gibson City, Ill., who disappeared in Chicago a week ago and whose bloodstained cap was found near the Chicago river, extended today to a radius of 80 miles from Chicago. Railway men were asked to search cars that have been routed from here to see if the physician's body had been thrust therein by the assassins who now are believed to have killed him.

WOMAN MAKES LAST APPEAL TO JURORS

Mrs. Louisa Lindloff, Seeress Accused of Murdering Son, Pleads For Acquittal.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Louisa Lindloff made her last appeal today to the jury which is trying her on a charge of murdering her 15-year-old son, Arthur, for his life insurance. The state also introduced a convoluted evidence, pointing out that the woman had poisoned other members of her family for their insurance. Attorney George Remus made his last appeal to the jury when court opened and Mrs. Lindloff, who, as a seeress, has predicted her own release after gazing into the huge crystal globe, the "ball of fate" in which she professed to see the future, watched the jurors intently. The jury was expected to take the case all noon.

GETS MAXIMUM SENTENCE FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT.

Green Bay, Nov. 4.—John Murray, aged 27, was arrested by the police for a criminal assault upon 12-year old Esther Krause. Municipal Judge Mougan sentenced him to 35 years in the state prison the maximum sentence. The Krause girl is in a critical condition.

CHARGED WITH MURDERING HIS FELLOW WORKMAN.

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 4.—Philip Roth, of East Rutherford, was arraigned in court here today to stand trial for murder. Roth is accused of having caused the death of Frank Hall, also of East Rutherford, by striking him on the head with a pitchfork. The alleged attack took place on June 23 last and Hall died about ten days later from a fractured skull. Both men were employed by the Interborough Coal Company and the assault is said to have resulted from a dispute over their work.

Seek Escaped Inmates: The sheriff of Jefferson county was in the city this afternoon searching for two inmates of the county insane asylum who had escaped. They were Henry Grove and Henry Fredericks. Grove wore a brown hat and checked suit, and Fredericks a black suit and hat. Their clothes are marked.

WILSON WORKS HARD AS CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Democratic Candidate Forgets Lacerated Head and Spends Time at Correspondence—Last Speech Tonight.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 4.—Governor Wilson forgot about his lacerated scalp today and dug into his correspondence. He said he was not bothered in the least by the wound received yesterday when he was knocked against the roof of a closed automobile in which he was riding. A few photographers sought a picture of the governor with the narrow strip of plaster across his partly shaved head.

"No, no certainly not," was the governor's answer as he drew away from the camera men and nobody got the picture. The governor planned to leave at 1:12 for Piquette and Fetterman, N. J., where he is to speak tonight, winding up the campaign.

Captain William J. McDonald, the Texas ranger and body guard of the governor who was also shaken up by the auto mishap and slightly bruised, was ready to accompany the governor on his trip.

"Although the accident was no joke," remarked the governor today, "there were some amusing things about it. When the physician examined Captain Bill McDonald," he said "to see if he was injured internally he was astonished at the number of holes in McDonald. Captain Bill has been wounded so many times in his thrilling days of service with the Texas rangers that Judge William Hughes, democratic candidate for United States senator from New Jersey believed Captain Bill dare not go in swimming because he is so full of lead he'd sink."

Captain McDonald or "Silent Bill" as he is best known is a great favorite with Governor Wilson, Edward M. House of Houston, Texas, a warm friend of the candidate; obtained the services of the captain who in his day has guarded Col. Roosevelt too. He was on the wolf hunt in Oklahoma with the Colonel and at the latter's instance worked on the Brownsville case.

"I never killed a man, but what was shooting at me," is the captain's indefinite way of answering the question as to how many men he has killed. He has been guarding Gov. Wilson ever since Col. Roosevelt was shot in Milwaukee.

SHIP YARD EMPLOYEES ON EIGHT HOUR BASIS.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 4.—Four thousand employees of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company are benefited by the eight-hour schedule which was put into effect today. The new schedule carries nine hours pay for eight hours' work. The order was brought about by the recent act of congress compelling government work to be done in eight-hour shipyards. The Fore River company has under construction the battleship Nevada and two submarines.

SHOW LATEST MODELS AT PARIS AVIATION SALON.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The latest models of military and naval air craft form the most conspicuous feature of the aviation salon which opened in Paris today to continue through the greater part of the week. In connection with the exhibition there is to be a conference of aeronautical experts of all nations to discuss the momentous problem of the security of aeroplanes.

SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE BEGUN IN BOSTON TODAY.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—A dozen teams of racing cyclists, hailing from many countries of the world, started in the six-day race at the Boston Arena early this afternoon. Included among the competitors are Porchiot and Gardellin, comprising the French-Italian team; Pye and Granda, the Australians; Loftis and Diefenbacher, the English-German team; Jimmy Moran of Boston and Joe Fogler of New York; Magin and Cameron, the Scotch team; and Bobby Walhour and Elmer Collins, the Hub-Dixie team.

Arizona Women Hope for Ballot.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 4.—Arizona women today closed a strenuous campaign in behalf of the proposed amendment to the state constitution granting women the full rights of suffrage. The fate of the amendment will be decided by the voters at tomorrow's general election.

SITUATION AS SEEN IN VARIOUS STATES

Review of Status of Different Parties at Important Points in Middle Western States.

Review of Status of Different Parties at Important Points in Middle Western States.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, Nov. 4.—The various state political chairmen and state managers of national candidates today prepared to close their different headquarters from which the campaign has been conducted. Many tons of campaign literature have been handled through the mails and otherwise, and in addition all parties have canvassed the state thoroughly seeking votes through floods of oratory. That tomorrow's election will be a close three-cornered contest from a national standpoint and a likewise two sided race for gubernatorial honors in Wisconsin, is still the view taken by the general public.

Active in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—The fermenting out of more cases of alleged illegal registration and the perfecting of plans to get out the entire vote of the state tomorrow was the order in the campaigns in the three political parties in this state today. It is thought operatives of a Chicago detective agency has been at work in most of the principal towns of the state for several days. More than a dozen cases of alleged illegal registration were reported by the agency from Anderson last night and at the same time it became known that employees of the same force had been working in Terre Haute, where cases were alleged to have been

WANAMAKER MAY BE GIVEN THE PLACE

John Wanamaker.
When James S. Sherman's successor as Republican candidate for vice president is selected on Nov. 11, one will be elected from the state of Pennsylvania. It is believed that Wanamaker will be chosen to accept the honor, whether President Taft is re-elected or not.

Strenuous Ohio Fight.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 4.—With the arrival of President Taft in this city tonight, the preliminaries to probably the most strenuous presidential campaign that Ohio has ever known will come to an end, while the state campaign will wind up with democratic gubernatorial nominee James Cox addressing a meeting in Toledo. The democrats who announced that they would continue the campaign up to the very moment that the polls opened are fulfilling their announcement. President Taft is expected here at 7:00 p. m. and will go to the home of his brother, Charles P. Taft.

Michigan Situation.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—Except for a few scattering rallies throughout the state tonight, the presidential campaign in Michigan is closed. Campaign committees of all parties today devoted their energies to perfecting plans for getting out a full vote. Registration has been heavy and with favorable weather a record poll is anticipated. Chairmen of the democratic, republican and progressive committees predict victory for their respective candidates with the Roosevelt men claiming the largest plurality.

Work at Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4.—While there will be but one or two political meetings in Minnesota today, leaders of the three big parties are not resting and a large amount of quiet work is being done on the last day of the campaign.

SPRIT OF PATRIOTISM STIRS GREECE; PEOPLE EAGER TO FIGHT TURKS AND EVEN MONKS TAKE UP ARMS TO DEFEND NATIVE LAND

Monks of Greek Monastery guarding Frontier; arrow points to Monastery. Insert shows demonstration of patriots before, page 2 at Athens.

Something of the old-time patriotism of the sort that humbled Xerxes more than two thousand years ago, is evident in Greece today. Even if the rulers of Greece had been opposed to the war with Turkey, they could not have prevented it, so eager were the people to fight the Turks. In one of the accompanying pictures the monks of a Greek monastery are seen guarding the Greek-Turkish frontier. The other shows how the Grecian people greeted the war declaration.

STARR SAYS COUNTY SURELY REPUBLICAN; KAVELAGE CONFIDENT

Chairmen of Rival Political Organizations in County Make Statements on Eve of Election.

"The whole republican ticket will win in Rock county, from president down to coroner," said Chairman Frank P. Starr of the republican committee today in discussing the political situation on the eve of election. Continuing he gave the following statement which is to the point: "The voters in Rock county have not forgotten the conditions under the Peck Administration nor the soup houses under Cleveland. Prosperity abounds in the state and nation. Why change?"

Sees Karel's Victory.

A. Gardner Kavelage, chairman of the county democratic committee, in statement issued today saw victory for Karel in Rock county as well as in the state. "I have visited most of the towns in the county," he said, "and there has been a decided sentiment for Karel."

"Karel's strength will be especially noted in the cities," said Mr. Kavelage, "but the county districts will give Karel a handsome vote."

Wilson's Vote Less.

It regard to the presidential situation Mr. Kavelage said: "Mr. Wilson's vote will run slightly less than Karel's in Rock county, but I look for a good majority in favor of the entire democratic ticket."

Democratic literature has been distributed all over the county by the members of the county committee and Mr. Kavelage as well as other prominent democrats feel gratified with the manner in which the campaign has been conducted.

Votes for Women.

Members of the county political equality league were as confident as any of the various political camps. A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Ried last afternoon at which there were several speeches of decidedly optimistic and enthusiastic tone.

Among other things considered was the proposition of having workers stationed at the various polling places in the cities and if possible in the rural districts to hand out literature. The work will all be done within the limits proscribed by law and the ladies will donate their services.

Maxfield's Statement.

Harry L. Maxfield, city chairman of the Bull Mooseers, and one of the leading Progressives in the county, gave out the following statement regarding the election tomorrow: "I think Roosevelt will poll more votes than Taft. The voters, however, are so non-committal, that it is impossible to form a definite opinion. I think McGovern will carry the county by a good majority."

Mr. Maxfield received a wire from the progressive headquarters in Milwaukee last afternoon stating that Roosevelt would poll more votes than Taft in Wisconsin and that he stood a good show of carrying the state.

RAILROAD LAYS OFF EMPLOYES FOR DAY

Northwestern Shops and Freight Offices to Close Tomorrow to Allow Men to go to Polls.

That its employees may cast their votes at the election tomorrow, the Chicago & Northwestern railroad will allow practically all of the men employed in this city to lay off tomorrow to go to the polls. Orders to this effect were received today by Agent A. L. Hemmens. By the terms of the order, the shops at South Janesville and the freight offices in this city will be closed all day, all extra trains will be canceled and all section hands will be allowed to lay off. The company has done this, it is understood in order that all of its workmen may have an opportunity to vote.

Freight House to Close.

The freight house of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad will be closed all day tomorrow and other employees of the railroad in this city will be given an opportunity to cast their votes. Asked as to the possibility of work being suspended for the men employed at the roundhouse, C. B. Swan, foreman, replied: "No, the business will not permit us to close tomorrow for the elections, but I will see that every man has the opportunity to vote."

OBITUARY.

William Yuengst.

Funeral services for William Yuengst were held at the home of Edwin Badger, 1021 North Washington street, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Rev. J. W. Langheim was officiating pastor. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Those acting as pall bearers were William Grove, J. F. Carle, Fred and Julius Gramke, A. E. Hill, and George Hiltner.

Mrs. Ward W. Ticknor.

Mrs. Ward W. Ticknor, aged thirty-one passed away at 5 o'clock yesterday morning at 728 Milton Avenue, after a lingering illness of eight months duration. She leaves to mourn her untimely death her husband, two children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyander Hughes of this city, and one sister. She was born in Milwaukee, August 26, 1881. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Mary's church and interment will be made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

ISSUES CHALLENGE TO MADISON ELEVEN

Coach Coplan Seeks Game With the Strong Capital City High School Team to Decide Championship.

Much interest is now taken in the local football team, since the trimming which they administered to Beloit high school on the local field last Saturday. The coach is well pleased in the way the squad played even after a slow start. He reported good news to the school this morning. He has written to the Madison team, now claiming state honors, challenging them for a championship game. The local record for the year was sent in, and in addition he asks that the game be played here on Thanksgiving or the week later unless they insist on playing at that place. This should stir up the local followers and give their support at this game.

Janesville played a fine game on last Saturday and at some times showed championship form. There is no reason why they cannot defeat Madison. Madison reports a strong team throughout, and the locals will need much practice if they expect a victory for the title.

A reply will be received at once and the game arranged as soon as possible. No game is scheduled for this week, and the team have a good rest before they tackle Beloit in a return game on November 16th at that place. About 400 were present at last Saturday's struggle and it is hoped the interest may be kept for the remaining games.

LAUREAN MEMBERS AT BANQUET BOARD

Delightful Affair Given at High School Saturday Evening in Honor of New Members.

Fifty members of the Laurean society, alumni and active members, enjoyed the annual reception and party given in honor of the new members at the high school building Saturday evening. Miss Olive Reynolds, president as toastmistress, adding much to the zest of the evening with clever introductory speeches.

The entire set of rooms back of the stage, were decorated with the Laurean colors, pink and white. Streamers were extended across the rooms, and pink and white carnations were effectively used to carry out the scheme of decoration.

The new members enjoyed a rare treat, and all declared they never had a better time. The toast to the old members was interesting and was well given by Miss Marjorie Van Kirk. The prophesy was a success, every member knowing their future fortunes before they left for their homes. The following was the program: "Address of Welcome," President Evelyn Kavelage; Response by Esther Harris; "The Laurean History" by Alta Field; "Toast to the new Members" by Elizabeth McManus; "Toast to the Old Members" by Marjorie Van Kirk; reading by Jessica George; "Prophecy" by Misses Ruth Souiman and Marion Matheson remarks by the critic, Miss McClure.

SECOND WARD TEAM WON IN FOOTBALL GAME ON SUNDAY

Defeated Eleven Composed of Players From Third and Fourth Wards by Score of 6 to 0.

Yesterday afternoon a team composed of second ward players defeated an eleven of players from the third and fourth wards by the score of 6 to 0. The game was hotly contested from start to finish and both teams were about evenly matched. Carl Hindes fullback, was the star of the Second Ward team with his line plunging, and carried the ball across the line for the only touchdown made, in the second quarter. The losing squad put up a scrappy game, and were very good on the defensive. Connell's work in the way of tackles being particularly good. Hindes made a long end run in the last part of the fourth quarter, but was prevented from making a touchdown when Connell downed him on the five-yard line, and the end of the game was called before the Second Warders could put the ball into play again. The same teams will meet again next Sunday at the fair grounds.

No Washington.

Apocryph of Washington's birthday George M. Coban, the comedian, said at a dinner at the Players' club in New York:

"All actors, alas, have not the veracity of George Washington. I know an actor—and his name isn't Washington—who was so hard up during the zero weather of last month that he came near suiciding."

"But just when the poor fellow was at his gloomiest, his wife came and showed him a savings book containing a credit balance of four figures."

"Why—why, darling," cried the actor, "where on earth did you—how did you possibly manage to accumulate all this?"

"He took her in his arms and kissed her. Then, when he let her go, she smiled and said:

"I accumulated it, dear, by putting away a dime every night you told me a fib about where you'd been so late."

CIVIL ACTION TRIED IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Jury to Pass on Testimony in Case of Emma Matson Versus George F. Bahr of Footville.

Trial of the case of Emma Matson versus George Bahr was opened at ten o'clock this morning in the Municipal Court with a panel of four jurors, Edward Van Vranken, J. R. Lamb, Carl Diehls and Neil McVicar. Attorney John L. Fisher, counsel for the plaintiff opened the case to the jury. Attorney John Cunningham appeared for the defendant. The plaintiff alleges that she entered the employment of George Bahr on June 26, 1910, it being stipulated at the time that she was to receive $2 per week with lodgings, board and washing. She continued in his employment until September 16, 1912, and in the meantime the defendant became indebted to her in the sum of $235 for her services as housekeeper. The plaintiff further alleges that the defendant promised to pay her extra for outside work, that she did such work to the value of $100, that for all her services she has received nothing except $40 in September, 1912, and that there is now due her $295. The defendant denies these allegations and alleges that he furnished board and lodging for the defendant's children which has not been paid. Bahr is a well driller living at Footville, and Mrs. Matson came there from Milwaukee. It will probably be late this afternoon before the case is given to the jury.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCorty

Girls are fine things for many purposes, but they make mighty poor rooters at a football game. So thinks Dr. Peter Wilson, president of the students' association at Northwestern university, and he has sent forth an order that girls will not be permitted to mingle with the male students at the football games hereafter. "The girls have practically disrupted our cheering squad," he declared in making the order. "Our men cannot be cheering on to victory by girls eating chocolates. The men won't keep their minds on the game when they take girls with them to watch the sport."

The Carlisle Indians, led by Thorpe, the prince of athletes, are going up and down the land beating everything in sight at football. They have defeated Syracuse by a score of 33 to 0, and Syracuse has beaten Michigan, 18 to 7. The Indians recently defeated the strong Toronto, Can., rugby team by a score of 49 to 1.

Philadelphia fight fans look for one of the prettiest bouts seen in their city for months on the night of November 6, when young Jack O'Brien, the sensational Quaker City lightweight, will meet Packey McFarland in a six-round go. O'Brien, unlike Kid Alberts, Young Duffy and other boys who have met McFarland of late, will not be awed by Packey's reputation, for Young Jack is a most courageous lad and confidence is his middle name. He realizes that he has plenty of speed and as much fine skill as any boy in the world. He will not run away from Packey but will stand right up and fight him just as he would an amateur.

Joe Tinker is mighty anxious to get his release from the Chicago Cubs in order that he may accept a position as manager of the Cincinnati Reds. "It stands to reason that I, being the oldest player in point of service on the Cub machine, feel that I am entitled to a lift when the opportunity presents itself," declares Tinker. "Murphy can see that there's money and possibly some glory ahead of me with the Reds, while there is absolutely nothing but hard work and possibly the minors ahead of me were I to stick with the Cubs."

They are having a rather tough time time hurrying Frank Chance to sundry portions of the land and removing the ex from his title and calling him Peerless Leader again.

Latest reports say they have him glued to the St. Louis National league team and likewise to the New York Americans. There's work in both places for a real leader.

The impression seems to prevail among baseball managers that Roger Bresnahan has about as much chance of forcing the St. Louis Club to respect his four-year contract as a snowball has in Cuba.

It appears that when the contract was drawn up Roger made the baseball club stand for a lot of things while he stood for nothing except to draw his salary.

"The contract is too one-sided to stand the test in court," is the general verdict.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN, EX-FIGHTER, LIVES SIMPLE LIFE ON HIS NEW ENGLAND FARM

John L. Sullivan at his farm in Abington, Mass.

Ruddy checked, clear eyed and with a step as springy as in the days when he was the champion prize fighter of the world, John L. Sullivan has this fall been directing the harvesting of a fine crop on his seventy-acre farm on the outskirts of Abington, Mass. He is no longer the Sullivan whom his friends knew during the years that followed his defeat by Corbett. He drinks none, smokes little, and lives the simple life.

Sullivan has grown potatoes enough almost to keep the town of Abington supplied for the winter. He has some hens that he is proud of, and grows about every vegetable that can be raised in the New England climate.

THE HOME MARKET.

The exhibition to be made in Janesville next week includes both the manufacturers and merchants, and its object is to impress upon the people the value and importance of the home market.

Many of the goods manufactured in the city go to all parts of the country, and some of them have a world-wide reputation. Exhibits of these goods are always an interesting study. They speak well for the enterprise of the city, and are a valuable asset as an advertising medium.

But the thing that comes closer home to the local consumer is the stock of merchandise carried by the merchants. It is an old saying that "familiarity breeds contempt." It also breeds indifference and lack of appreciation.

This is true, to some extent, concerning Janesville as a home market, as is evidenced by the fact that many people chase off to Chicago to buy goods, or are captured by a picture in some mail order catalogue, and send the money out of town, which could be more economically invested at home.

The Gazette is in position to know something about the city as a home market, because it does business year in and year out with more than two hundred retail dealers.

The paper is familiar with the stocks carried, because it has much to do with them in the way of publicity. The reader may be surprised to learn that the value of these stocks is close to $3,000,000. They represent the best manufacturers in all parts of the country, and the prices at which they are sold are cheaper—value considered—than the prices of any mail order house in the land. You can buy in Janesville anything that you can buy anywhere, and there is no occasion to go away from home for merchandise.

Janesville, rarely has a business failure. The same familiar faces and the same old store, greet the customer year after year, and lend to the place an air of stability and intelligent service.

The men behind the merchandising of the city combine with honesty and efficiency a spirit of enterprise which is in keeping with the spirit of the age.

They have been reaching out for trade so long and so persistently that Janesville is recognized today as the great trading center in this part of the state. Every town within a radius of fifty miles has been made to contribute through the efficient work of publicity which the merchants have carried on, while every farmer in the county is familiar with what the city has to offer.

While there is no sentiment in business, and an appeal for loyalty falls on listless ears, there are always plenty of bargains in the home market which are overlooked through carelessness or indifference.

"Buy it in Janesville," is not a sentimental refrain. It is the best advice from every angle. It pays from a financial standpoint, and prevents the undertaker from being in a class by himself, as the mail order house has not yet discovered how to bury our dead.

THE OUTLOOK.

At the close of a national campaign of many unique characteristics, the election is at hand tomorrow, and the man does not exist who can forecast results with any degree of certainty. Had the contest been confined to the two old parties, the re-election of President Taft would have been assured at the opening of the campaign, as the republican party is by far and away the most popular.

If Colonel Roosevelt had secured the nomination, at the Chicago convention, he would not have appeared on the surface as a disturbing element and there would have been no third party.

The strength which he has developed through personal popularity has largely been drawn from the republican party and the democratic party has been the gainer. This gives Wilson the advantage, in the three-cornered fight, and yet there are many democrats who will support Taft.

The three national committees issued statements yesterday, each claiming the election, and giving figures to substantiate the claim. It will be interesting to know how good they were at guessing, after the returns are in, for it is a guess, pure and simple.

A landslide is predicted for Roosevelt, but there will be no landslide. The silent vote holds the balance of power. It has not been influenced by brass bands and oratory, and what it may represent in choice, no man is wise enough to know. The following forecast is from republican headquarters. If it proves correct, the nation will have occasion to rejoice.

"Three hundred and fifteen electoral votes for President Taft, or forty-nine more than are necessary, are claimed by Director David W. Mulvane, in charge of the western bureau of the republican campaign, and Joseph B. Keating, chief of the organization bureau. These managers state that the contest on the home stretch is between Taft and Wilson with Roosevelt running a poor third. They assert that Wilson will not get the democratic support that Bryan received in 1908 and that the steadily increasing drift toward President Taft is due to the open declarations of republicans who early in the campaign had made up their minds to vote for Wilson to insure the defeat of Roosevelt; that they will now vote for Taft, realizing that Roosevelt's election is impossible, and that a vote for Roosevelt aids in the election of a democratic candidate.

"According to the statement issued by Mr. Mulvane and Mr. Keating, Governor Wilson is given the solid south, with South Carolina and California added, making a total of 132 votes. The following states, with a total of 84 electoral votes, are placed in the doubtful column: Colorado, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Tennessee and West Virginia. The remaining states, with 315 votes, are given to President Taft.

"Director Mulvane stated this morning that the estimate was based upon reports from all states. He said that the awakening of the country to the wisdom and necessity of continuing the good times under the Taft administration was universal and that the last week of the campaign had witnessed large accessions to the republican candidates."

GAME WARDENS.

It is stated that the state administration has put on a great many extra deputy game wardens during the past week, ostensibly in anticipation of the open season for deer, which takes place this month, but in reality because of their political activity. Twelve of them went north on the St. Paul road this week, dropping off at stations north of Tomahawk, where they will sit around the stoves at the hotels, walk up and down the railroad tracks occasionally—none of them dare go very far into the woods without a guide—and draw salaries. Meanwhile, they will of course say a good word, or several of them, for the state administration which gave them their jobs.

Reports from the northwestern part of the state are to the effect that another crowd of game wardens, oil inspectors, and other state employees, who have been campaigning for the administration, is working its way south and east, and may be expected in Marathon county this week. It was hoped that when the Stephenson investigation disclosed the illegal work of the game wardens in the campaign of 1908, and in prior campaigns, it meant an end of such work. But it seems that this kind of "reform" politics dies hard. And the hunters pay the bills.—Wausau Record-Herald.

The Evening Wisconsin, the oldest republican paper in the state, offers the following suggestion:

But the enthusiasm for Judge Karel gives promise of the thrusting out of McGovern and the repeal of the income tax law. Bryan's advice to democrats to vote for Karel will help the democratic ranks from parting on election day and no doubt will go far to augment the Karel vote. On the other hand, thousands of republicans will vote for Karel, because they like him and his principles, and there is no republican running for Governor in Wisconsin.

The Monroe Sentinel, established in 1854, and for the past thirty-five years conducted by Charles A. Booth, has suspended publication. The following paragraph appears in the last issue: "The newspaper 'game' is not so hard to break into, perhaps, but there seems to be something about it that makes it hard to 'break out' of, and speaking for the present force, the writer knows that while the discontinuance of the paper is, under all the existing circumstances, well advised, there is yet a poignant regret that it must be so, which will only disappear in the fulness of time.

A vote for McGovern and his state ticket is not a republican vote, but an endorsement of extravagance and burdensome taxation. Be as independent as you please, so far as the state ticket is concerned, for the governor has set the pace.

About the only impression Senator La Follette made on his Milwaukee audience, last Friday night, was a desire to go home, and most of the people left the hall early in the evening. The senator's popularity seems to have dropped several points.

An Exchange Says. Wonder if it doesn't give McGovern a sort of creepy feeling to hear La Follette, after urging the people to vote for him in spite of his treason and mendacity, and wind up with the grim announcement, "I can afford to wait."

The country will live under any kind of administration, but many of us will live easier if the present era of prosperity is not disturbed.

The game of life is more important than the game of politics, because there is no closed season and everybody takes a hand.

Why should the nation desire a change of national administration when there is everything to lose and nothing to gain?

A vote for Taft means a vote for continued prosperity.

PRESS AND POLITICS.

Why Taft is Gaining. One of the most important factors in the wave of Taft sentiment which is sweeping over the country in the closing days of the campaign is the tardy realization on the part of manufacturers and business men generally that but for the courageous vetoes by the president of democratic tariff bills passed during the late session of congress the country would right now be in the grip of industrial depression, if not of actual panic, instead of being in the flood tide of prosperity.

KILL THIS AMENDMENT.

The one pernicious amendment which should be buried beyond recollection this year will be known as Joint Resolution No. 48.

To amend Article XI of the Constitution by adding thereto a new Section to be known as Section 3a, relating to the acquisition of lands by the state or any of its cities for certain public purposes.

Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1909, an amendment to the Constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the two Houses, which proposed amendment is as follows: That the Assembly concurring That Article XI of the Constitution be amended by adding a new section thereto, to be known as Section 3a to read:

Section 3a. The state or any of its cities may acquire by gift, purchase or condemnation lands for establishing, laying out, widening, enlarging, extending and maintaining memorial grounds, streets, squares, parkways, boulevards, parks, playgrounds, sites for public buildings, and reservations in and about and along and leading to any or all of the same; and after the establishment, layout, and completion of such improvements, may convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for such improvements, with reservations, concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate, so as to protect such public works and improvements, and their environs, and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air and usefulness of such public works; now therefore, be it Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this Legislature.

Want ads do the business, when all other ways fail.

One more thing in favor of Woodrow Wilson is that Secretary Jim Wilson has not sought to establish relationship.

Although there is nothing about it in any of the national platforms, most people will continue to swat the flies. But it will not be real prosperity until every man has a pair of suspenders for every pair of trousers.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

Hod Spink is diggin' a well so deep that when he is in the bottom of it he kin hear the Japs plottin' against Ameriky.

Miss Euphemis Perkins, our poetess of passion, has written a poem for this paper and same will be published when she antes up five cents a line which is our rates, the same as for cards of thank. Simplified spelling is great stuff for the editor that uses it don't have to spend any time reading proof. Nobody knows whether it is right or not, not even the feller that invented it.

Old Uncle Abner says he was treated by a doctor the last time he was down to the city. It ain't known what he took, but it's pretty near a cinch he took a little licker.

The last time this town went local option, it was pretty tough on the city toppers. The only places where they could buy licker was the following: Three drug stores, William Tibbitt's general store, upstairs over the livery stable, Hank Tumms' boat house, Jed Prink's blacksmith shop, Anse, Judson's tool house, Purdy's flour mill, Tilson's barber shop, Deacon Stubbs' corn crib, Hod Peters' hen house, Room 365, Hotel Hoptertown, and at the railroad station baggage room.

Swazey creek is flooded, and Ezra Harkins, our local weather bureau, has consulted his rheumatiz and says the creek is goin' four feet and three tenths higher. When it comes to weather, Uncle Ezra is not only a bureau, but a whole bedroom set.

There is three feet of water in the basement of William Tibbitt's general store and fishin' through the knotholes in the floor is all the rage. Grandpa Bibbins has caught one rubber boot and a second-hand zinc washboard.

T. Egbert Peavy has given up his plan to locate down to the city and has accepted a lucrative position as floorwalker in Amos Butts' livery stable. Old Ab Jones is a regular end seat hog. Three women fell over him trying to get into the amen corner in the U. B. church last Sunday.

The analysis of these tariff bills and of the industries which would have been affected by them shows that if they had become laws fourteen billion dollars worth of our manufactured products out of a total output of twenty billion dollars, would have been exposed to an utterly ruinous competition and four million out of our six million factory employees would have confronted the necessity of either submitting to a reduction in their wages or losing their jobs entirely. And that does not take into account the injury which would have been inflicted upon the wool growers and upon the best sugar farmers if the bills putting sugar upon the free trade list and reducing the duty on wool to a revenue basis had been signed by the president—Rockford Register-Gazette.

Derejct Republicans.

A leading Taft republican writes us that practically every republican county candidate and state candidate are refusing to co-operate with the Taft committee at Oshkosh and very few county committees will give any help. This is certainly a most scandalous state of affairs and it ought to be known so those men can be scratched on the ticket. Enter a good deal, a straight, honest democrat for any office than a republican, who has no fidelity for the party he calls himself by.—Jefferson County Union.

Fixing Things Up.

At any rate, Taft has so arranged matters that nobody voting for Wilson can be accused of doing so with a view to landing a fourth class postmastership. These little incitements to party loyalty are now under civil service.—Wausau Record Herald.

Olive Oil to Remove Cinder. The man with the cinder in his eye was suffering great pain. Every one had a different method of relief; to suggest, but nothing had the desired effect. At length one of the bystanders procured a little olive oil from the lunch room. This was poured into the eye and relief was instant. "I learned that method of dealing with cinders while abroad," said the bystander, "and I guess it is about as effective as anything after all."

Modart Corsets:

Well dressed women must of necessity, wear first-class corsets. Many find in the "Modart" the realization of their desires. It possesses the virtues that accentuate the elegance of the good figure and imparts to the figure that is otherwise a dignity, ease and grace foreign until its advent. We know that many women would become converts to the charms of the "Modart" were they to make a trip here to become personally acquainted with this wonderful corset. Our special demonstration of the "Modart" in charge of an expert, is inviting to women who covet a good figure. This corset will help in gaining it, to which may be added comfort, style and durability. Demonstration and fittings Tuesday and Wednesday only.

HOW TO LEARN THE ELECTION RESULTS

GAZETTE HAS PERFECTED ARRANGEMENTS FOR COMPLETE SERVICE FOR NATION, STATE AND COUNTY.

TO HAVE FULL RETURNS

As Quickly as They Can be Counted—Special Telephones Installed in Office for Convenience of Patrons.

Janesville will learn the results of the national election as quickly as the returns are counted through the medium of the telephone and telegraph by the arrangements completed by the Gazette. They will be thrown onto a large screen on the Hutchinson & Sons building, on East Milwaukee street by a powerful lantern which Prof. John Arbutnot will manage.

During the evening the monotony of the returns will be enlivened by clever cartoons drawn by E. R. Bradley on political subjects, that will tell a story in themselves. Should the evening be wet or windy, the drawings on the side of the Gazette building will be lowered to give ample opportunity to all who wish to stay and watch the results. Owing to the work of receiving and handling the returns, the Gazette office will be closed to the public and no one admitted.

However, there will be many who wish to know the results and can not come down town, and to accommodate these the Gazette has installed a special telephone, Rock County No. 27, for this purpose. Also patrons can be accommodated by calling Wisconsin phone No. 77, two rings, or Rock County phone No. 77, two rings. The editorial room phones will be too busy receiving the returns to be answered but the information desired will be given out on the other telephones.

The news will be received on general results, over a special leased wire of the Western Union Telegraph company by an expert operator, which will run directly from the Chicago office of the company to the Gazette office. There will be no delay and the news will commence coming in long before the polls here have closed. The state results will come by long distance telephone from the Associated Press and the county returns, also by telephone, from the county telephone office.

In the office it will be handled by experts who will bring chaos into order and give the public the results so that they can understand them. The Western Union company will receive its reports in various cities throughout the country, from Associated Press correspondents, the Gazette furnishing the Rock county returns to the general resume of results.

Aside from the report received at the Gazette office, Manager Myers has made arrangements for a special service and the results will be read from the stage of his theatre during the performance of "The Girl Who Dared," which will give two performances that evening. The last performance over the theatre will remain open as long as the patrons desire.

The Elks also plan for a special wire service for Tuesday evening and will serve a buffet lunch for members only in their club rooms. The Eagles, who have recently redecorated and renovated their club rooms, will also hold open house and have election returns during the evening. The Unique club plan their annual election night "smoker" in their rooms on North Main street, so that there will be plenty of opportunity for persons interested in receiving returns to learn the results.

The returns will start early, from the east and it will be early Wednesday morning before anything definite from the middle west or west is learned. It promises to be a busy night and from the interest evinced many will avail themselves of the opportunity to learn the results before going home.

ALL ARRANGEMENTS FOR ELECTION MADE

Ballots Distributed to Polling Booths This Afternoon—Third Ward Votes at Library.

All preparations for tomorrow's general election were completed today. Clerk J. P. Hammarlund this morning apportioned the ballots to the different wards and they were taken to the polling booths this afternoon. Voters will go to the usual polling booths to cast their ballots, except in the third ward, where the voting will be done at the men's reading room in the basement. Voters will enter the room from the Park street side only in order to prevent confusion and annoyance to the library attendants.

Three different ballots will be presented to the voter. One is the presidential ballot, one the official state and county ballot, and on the third ballot the voter will express his opinion on opposition to granting women the right of suffrage. The candidates for president and vice president on the progressive and socialist labor party come under the head of "Independent." The socialist labor party also has candidates for state offices under the same head.

Three inspectors, two clerks, and two ballot clerks will be assigned to each polling booth. Charles Eller has been appointed chairman of inspectors in the first ward. S. C. Burnham in the second, H. J. Cunningham in the third, W. E. Spicer in the fourth, and J. A. Sutherland in the fifth. In case Mr. Sutherland is not able to serve, Hugh Joyce will take his place. The polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., one hour later than has been the previous custom.

TWENTY-FIVE DAYS FOR THEFT OF COAT

Sentence Received by Henry Finn This Morning After Changing His Plea to Guilty.

Twenty-five days in the county jail was the sentence received by Henry Finn this morning after pleading guilty to the theft of an overcoat from J. H. Conroy, a La Prairie farmer, on Saturday, October 26. Finn was arrested early last week wearing the stolen coat, but when arraigned he entered a plea of "not guilty." When brought before Judge Fifield for an examination this morning he asked to change his plea to "guilty." Finn took the coat from the wagon of Mr. Conroy while it was standing unattended on South River street.

To Clean Fountains.
The best way to clean drinking fountains which cannot be reached on the inside, is to use scalding hot water and a big handful of shot. Fill the fountain about a quarter full of hot water, and then pour in the shot. Shake the vessel briskly so that the shot will scrape along the bottom and sides of the fountain. This will remove the scum and leave the fountain sweet and clean.

WHIRLWIND TOUR OF FLYING SQUADRONS STARTS WEDNESDAY

Advertising Janesville's Bargain Week and the Made in Janesville Display for Next Week.

Wednesday morning at eight thirty, will see the first auto loads of the flying squadron of the Janesville Boosters leave the city for their whirlwind advertising tour of the county. If at the end of the three days' campaign there is anyone in the county that doesn't know that Janesville is to entertain all visitors in a royal style next week, it will not be the fault of the "Boosters."

It is requested that all persons who plan to go with the flying squadron on Wednesday send their names to the office of the Commercial club. More autos are needed and persons who wish to aid in the city for the week will be most welcome. The three days' trip means that the cars will go out one morning and return in the afternoon, the routes being arranged so as to cover the entire county in the three days.

Twelve thousand circulars will be distributed showing that all persons who come to Janesville during the week of November 11th and purchase a fixed amount of goods from any of the retail merchants in the association, will receive a rebate, practically means they will be paid for coming to the city. It is a great scheme and doubtless the city will be filled with visitors.

Aside from the bargain day sales the visitors will have an opportunity to visit the "Made in Janesville" exhibit at the auditorium which promises to be better than last year's show. Already the various manufacturers and merchants for display purposes have exceeded the expectations of the management and with band concerts, afternoon and evening it will be a gala event.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT ON ELECTION NIGHT

Musical Comedy, "The Girl Who Dared" Pleases Audience at Myers Last Evening.

Clever comedy, pretty girls, pleasing song hits, and artistic scenery characterized the musical comedy production, "The Girl Who Dared," at the Myers theatre last evening which will be presented again on election night, two performances.

The songs were all new and were quite catchy. The situations were cleverly staged and the beauty of the scenes were enhanced by the lighting effects. The plot of the play is sufficient to carry the interest of the audience and provided opportunities for the introduction of the chorus.

In the performances Tuesday night Manager Myers has arranged to have the election returns read from the stage, so that those desiring a seat may enjoy a clean musical show and at the same time get the election results as received over the special wire at the Gazette office.

SPLIT TICKETS CAN BE QUICKLY VOTED

SPLIT TICKET—Explanation Made in Answer to Many Inquiries on the Subject—Watch Ballot Carefully.

In answer to many inquiries as to how to split a ticket at Tuesday's election, the Gazette makes the following explanation. The voter is given three ballots on entering the booth. One, contains the Presidential electors only. On this put the cross over the republican column, for Taft. You do not have to vote for each elector individually. (The second ballot will contain the state ticket, legislative and county. The democratic column is first, then the prohibition, republican, social democrat and independent nomination. At the top of each column is a round circle. Should the voter wish to vote the straight ticket all he does is to place a cross in the circle at the top but if he wishes to split his ticket, say for Karel by a republican or McGovern by democrat pay no attention to the circle, but place a cross after each name desired. For instance the voter wishes to vote for Karel, found at top of first column under democratic head, cross his name in the square following. Then you can turn to the prohibition or republican columns and vote as you please, but you must place a cross after each man's name voted.

The sure and vote for the republican county officers in the third column. The other ballots contains the question of woman's suffrage only. The other three other amendments are on the state ticket ballots. You vote yes or no on these. All ballots are then deposited in the ballot box. It is easy to split a ticket if the voter remembers not to place a cross in the circle at the head of the various columns and marks the name of each candidate. There cannot be two votes for various candidates on the same ballot though. If in doubt ask an election official they will explain it to you.

SECOND CONCERT OF THE APOLLO CLUB

Madame Sturkow Ryder and Miss Edythe Roberts, the artists who are to appear before the Apollo Club tonight, are registered at the Grand Hotel. The concert this evening at Library Hall is the second of the present season's offering and is a most notable offering.

Pleasant News for Author.
A local author went to the library to get a copy of his own latest book. He had a friend with him. "Is 'Fate and Fusing in' he inquired. "Yes, sir," answered the librarian, promptly. "But how do you know without looking?" "It's never been out yet!"—Cleveland Leader.

Higher rates obtain for both call and time money than was exacted a week ago, when Europe was in its first convulsion over the news of the war in the Balkans. This would seem to indicate that high rates will prevail for some time to come. With money loaning at practically 5% in all European centers of importance except Paris, there is little reason to expect lower rates here until there is falling off in the European demand. Further importations of gold seem to be out of question for the rest of this year.

Democratic Administration Extravagant

Had State Expenses Increased as Under Peck's Term, They Would Now Be $17,000,000

Jumped 53 Per Cent. in Four Years

This in Spite of Panic Time Prices When Supplies Were Dirt Cheap

Democrats have objected to the increase in state expenditures by the Republicans. Had the state expenses increased as fast for the succeeding years as they increased during Peck's administration, they would now be $17,000,000 annually instead of $10,000,000.

This is pointed out by Assistant Secretary of State Nagler, who takes his figures from the reports of the Secretary of State.

"The state expenses for the last fiscal year, that of 1890; before the Peck administration took office on Jan. 1, 1891, were $2,287,532. For the year 1894, the last year of the Peck administration, they were $3,503,435," said Mr. Nagler today.

"This is an increase of 53 per cent. in four years. A similar increase during the years that the republicans have been in power since would bring the total at present up to $17,000,000 instead of the $10,000,000 which was spent by the state this year.

"This great increase during the Peck administration is all the more remarkable because the increase was made during the panic times, when everything was dirt cheap, and manufacturers were willing to sell their goods at a loss in order to get rid of them.

"In addition to rolling up this increase the democrats left the state finances in a state from which it took years of work to redeem them. The remission of taxes which left a deficit in the treasury for the succeeding administration to make up was one of these."

CRAZY HORSE.

Through a village of the Ogallala Sioux dashed a pony, crazed by fright. A baby boy had just been born in the village, and the appearance of the maddened pony was taken by the infant's parents as an omen. So the new born child was named "Crazy Horse."

(Among various Indian tribes it has always been the custom to give each child the name of the first object on which its mother's eyes happen to fall after the baby's birth. This accounts for such odd Indian titles as "Crazy Horse," "Poor Dog," "White Steer," "Gold Dollar," "Ridge Pole," "Boiling Kettle," etc.)

Crazy Horse from the first hated civilization and was the sworn enemy of the government. He stirred up the southern Sioux to keep on leading their old-time wild life and to refuse to settle on any reservation. In consequence he speedily found himself the leader of hundreds of "bad" Indians, both of his own and of other tribes. He was the firebrand of the whole frontier. More than once, by superior strength, the government succeeded in checking and even imprisoning him. But he would never admit himself conquered, and always—until the last tragic episode of his life—managed to wriggle free and to resume his career of bloodshed.

The Sioux Revolution.
In 1875 many tribes of the Sioux and of some allied "nations" went on the warpath. Their Black Hills lands were stolen from them by the white men. Government agents had maltreated and cheated them. Altogether they deemed it better to plunder at will and, if need be, to die fighting rather than to starve or be cheated on reservations.

Up to this time Crazy Horse had confined his warlike efforts for the most part to conflicts with Crow, Mandan and other tribes hostile to the Sioux, and to raids on poorly defended white settlements. In such exploits he had won fame and had learned generalship. Now he became one of the principal war chiefs of the whole uprising, scarce second in importance to Sitting Bull himself.

During a blizzard in the winter of 1875 General Reynolds, at the head of a force of regulars, made a sudden attack on Crazy Horse's camp. The general sought to cripple the Indians there by capturing all their ponies. For without a pony an Indian is of little value on the warpath. The ponies were caught by the troops and were herded together. But Crazy Horse and members of his band rushed through the blinding snow, past the guards, straight into the captured herd, waving blankets, screaming, firing guns and altogether making such wild uproar and confusion that the whole panic-stricken herd burst through the line of soldiers and stampeded into the prairie. The Indians, following the escaped ponies, trail far more quickly and easily than could the troopers, soon caught up with their steeds, mounted them and rode to safety.

General Crook followed up Crazy Horse's band, and first came upon them at Rosebud river, in Montana. There Crazy Horse and his 600 "braves" charged the soldiers with such ferocity and knowledge of savage tactics that Crook, after a furious battle, was beaten back. This battle added vastly to Crazy Horse's fame. New Indian recruits daily flocked to his camp. Hundreds fled from the reservations and joined him. He soon had a mighty horde of braves under his command.

He marched with his warriors to join Sitting Bull's red army. It was these two united bands that met and crushed Custer's troops at the Little Big Horn on June 25, 1876. Sitting Bull found his way to Canada after this campaign. But Crazy Horse and his followers, hotly pursued by General Miles, went back to Rosebud river, where they had defeated Crook. General MacKenzie fell upon Crazy Horse's camp and, with some loss of men, succeeded in destroying it.

The Last Battle.
Crazy Horse then retreated toward the Big Horn mountains, trying in vain to shake off Miles' close pursuit. At length Miles caught up with him, and a terrible battle ensued. The soldiers could scarcely withstand the savages' headlong charges until the artillery was brought up. Then the bombardment of shells broke the Indian formation to pieces. Unable to cope with such overpowering odds as cannon and gatling, Crazy Horse was forced to retreat.

The following spring he and his followers were captured and placed on a reservation. He at once set to work planning a new outbreak. The government heard of his plot and sent a squad of men secretly to arrest him. On September 7, 1877, he was overpowered and seized. He wrenched himself free from the guard and while making a dash for freedom was shot dead.

Damage by Lightning in Cities.
Investigations made over Europe seem to justify the belief that the damage by lightning, in the cities particularly, has decreased to a very marked degree in recent years, and it is explained by the presence of electric wires, which act as a protection in diverting the electric bolts. As the wires are put underground, it is expected that there will be noticed a great increase in the amount of damage by lightning and a return will be generally made to the use of lightning rods.

Banana Flour Introduced Into France.
Banana flour specially prepared as a tonic food is making its appearance in Paris. Within a recent period this fruit was but little used in France, and even now its consumption is limited. However, measures are being taken to increase the importation, and it is said that seventy vessels were recently fitted up for bringing the fruit to Europe. Banana flour has a much more extended use in England than on the continent, but efforts are now made to introduce it in France owing to its great nutritive value.

WOMAN'S PAGE

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN by Barbara Boyd

Marriage a Continual Falling in Love

A WRITER has said that marriage is a continual falling in love. Whereat, the pessimist rises to remark that judging by the divorce courts it seems more like a continual falling out of love. But perhaps a writer meant the successful marriage, and this interpolation does put a new face upon the case.

But at this point, little Mrs. Jones interrupts to say that she agrees with the pessimist; and that she doesn't see how she can keep on falling in love with Tom, when he doesn't do anything at home but read the newspapers and smoke and growl about the bills.

And Mrs. Brown agrees with her, and says she can hardly pry Sam out of his easy chair, and that she thinks he is the laziest man living, and that she just can't keep on loving a man like that.

And a whole lot more ladies are ready to speak; only, this isn't a divorce court; and besides, some happy, smiling ladies with a knowing expression in their eyes, look as if they had something to say.

For these women agree with the aforesaid writer. Only, they state, you must keep hunting up new traits to fall in love with.

But Mrs. Jones shakes her head and thinks Tom hasn't any new traits to fall in love with.

But look hard, Mrs. Jones, hunt diligently. Isn't that patient, steady way in which Tom goes to business every day, and plods over dull, old ledgers, worth loving him for? Rain or shine, hot or cold, he puts on his hat and fares forth, to earn you a comfortable living. If he doesn't feel very well, he says with a faint, little smile, "Oh, I'll be all right, don't worry," and even though his head is aching or the sciatica is running fiery red down his legs, away he goes.

Just hunt up some of these good lovable traits he has lying around loose, and fall in love with them. And you'll grow happier, and the home will grow cheerier, and probably the change will take his mind off the bills.

As for Sam who is so lazy, isn't there a deep joy in helping a husband overcome a fault, in replacing it with a lovable trait, and in falling in love with that?

Ask these happy, smiling women who have helped ill-tempered husbands to become sweet-tempered, and violent ones, gentle, and unbusiness-like ones, business-like, if they don't know joy sweeter and deeper than that first, wild, intoxicating falling in love.

"I would rather stumble along with John, provided we both are climbing upward, than go on triumphantly myself, leaving him fallen by the wayside," said one of the wives with the happy eyes. She is making a rather easy-going spendthrift into a keen, successful business man. And don't you suppose she is enjoying her work? She feels a joy in watching his character grow, little by little, under her eyes, that makes her days the happiest she has ever known.

So you see, if we will take a bigger view of marriage than that first sentimental view of it, when the world is transfigured and everything is going to be rose-colored for ever and ever, it can be a continual falling in love; and a falling in love that broadens and gives a vision that sees the infinite as well as the finite.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

"THAT NEVER HURTS ME."

WHEN a child fools its nurse and escapes taking some disagreeable but much needed medicine, he thinks he is lucky.

When a grown-up apparently fools nurse nature, and apparently escapes the medicinal consequences of some health defying act, he thinks he is lucky.

And one is just about as mistaken as the other. I heard a young man declaring the other day that this idea that you shouldn't go in bathing right after eating is all nonsense. "I do it often," he said, "and it never hurts me."

He is a man of fine physique and unusual endurance, and by reason of these things he is able to break the laws of health without any apparent punishment. But I haven't a doubt that that foolish trick is injuring him in some way or other, and that some day he will be asked to pay this debt he is running up—and with compound interest.

"That doesn't hurt me." How often I have heard one or another making that foolish boast about some infringement of the laws of health! Of course, in all the cases I have not had a chance to watch and see if the boast was justified, but in a great many I have seen that it was not.

"I can eat anything at any time and it never hurts me," a woman I know used to say, and so she overtaxed and abused her stomach in every possible way for many years. Finally there came to this woman a time of stress and trial. She broke down. Her digestion, that stronghold in which she thought herself so safely fortified, gave way. "I can't understand it," she said, "I always thought my stomach was the strongest part of me. I used to eat anything I wanted at any time." "Quite so," said the doctor dryly.

And now this woman is committing the second blunder of wondering why she cannot get over her trouble in a few months. Foolish woman! If she had been getting into debt for fifty years, would she wonder why she couldn't save up enough to pay it in five months?

Another woman I know used to abuse her eyes outrageously. She would read by the hour with a feeble gas or electric light placed high above her head. She would keep on sewing in the late afternoon when the twilight was so dim that I could hardly see across the room. She read incessantly on the cars even through a veil.

And when I tried to warn her she would laugh and say, "Oh nothing hurts my eyes, they are my strongest point."

Now she also is paying the debt of many years' contraction.

Consequences are costly things. When we suffer immediately for some infringement of the laws of health we think we are unlucky. In reality we are very lucky. "It never hurts me" is a dangerous thing to think.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS Edna K. Wooley

SHE'S KEEPING TAB. "I bought a good scale the other day," said a thrifty housewife, "just because I've been reading so much about the need of a weighing machine in every well equipped kitchen. I bought a good one, because it doesn't pay to get anything but the best quality, even for kitchen use, where most people think any old thing will do."

"One result of possessing the scale is that I've discovered I have a perfectly honest grocer. Everything he sells me by weight is correct to the mark. But I've got to have a scale with the butcher. I don't understand his method of weighing. There may be some kind about it that I'm not up to yet—but you can wager I'll know all about it before very long."

"And the fruit and vegetable pedtrimmings for other purposes. (You needn't snicker! Of course I mean the bones from the meat I buy.) "On the whole, I think tradesmen are more accurate than they used to be. There's been so much stir about the cheapness of some of them. They're pretty careful what they do in a community where people read the newspapers."

Nowadays, when you get five pounds of sugar, it's five pounds of sugar, and not a quarter of a pound of paper bag, or part water. I remember when I was a youngster, they used to weigh the sugar to make it weigh more and you couldn't carry a bag of it home without spoiling your clothes. That was brown sugar. We used it for cooking, and bought the cone sugar, in those days, for our coffee.

"I remember the first granulated sugar looked awfully funny to me. The only white sugar I had ever seen, except the cones, was pulverized sugar and if I'm not mistaken, we used to buy it in the drug store!"

The KITCHEN CABINET

DON'T worry, dear, it doesn't pay. The cheerful heart makes bright the way.

SOME SUCCESSFUL DISHES.

An economical stew is made of a pound of round steak cut in one thin slice as broad as possible. Mix in a sauce pan a cup of bread crumbs, two tablespoonsful of chopped suet, a par-boiled onion chopped, two tablespoonsful of chopped parsley, a beaten egg, and salt and pepper to season. Gather the stuffing in a large lump, roll it inside of the meat, tie with a string, and fry it all over until brown. Put into a saucepan a tablespoonful of drippings, chop half an onion and fry, then add the meat. Mix a tablespoonful of flour with a little soup stock and pour over the meat. Add enough stock occasionally to keep it well basted. Cook for three-quarters of an hour.

Raspberry Buns.—Rub four tablespoonfuls of butter into three cups of flour, add half a cup of milk, a half cup of sugar and two well beaten eggs. Mix a half teaspoonful of soda and a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, sifted with the flour. If the milk does not seem to make the mixture soft enough, add a little more, though the dough should be quite stiff. Mold in buns, place them on a buttered dish, make a hole in the top of each and put in a teaspoonful of raspberry jam, drawing up the dough to cover it. Bake in a hot oven.

Cottage Soup.—Put a tablespoonful of rice drippings into a sauce pan, cut up a half pound of the neck of mutton into small pieces, and with the bones fry in the sauce pan, turning with a spoon. Cut up a carrot, a turnip, two large onions and add to the meat. Keep turning until they have all been well heated through. Add a cup of rice and two and a half quarts of stock or boiling water, a teaspoonful of sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly under cover for an hour.

ABDOMINAL MUSCLES NEED EXERCISE.

The stomach is a muscle. Its efficiency depends not only upon the nervous or mental stimulus by which all muscles are actuated and all secretions, but upon its muscular tone. When food enters the stomach it begins to roll so as to keep the food turning, absorbing and mixing the gastric secretion which oozes from its walls with the food to reduce it to the chemical and mechanical condition required for entry to the small intestine, where the work of digestion continues. The importance of right food selection and of right mental attitude as requirements for the making of good blood have been constantly emphasized in these Hints, but this implies no neglect of the other factors of health, and particularly not of exercise. However well food may be selected it can do only harm unless the other conditions for digestion are favorable. Mechanical systems of treatment for indigestion are valuable, because they supply important physical conditions.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am 30 and weigh 167 pounds, and would like to learn to dance. Am I too old? My husband wants me to learn. I was married when I was 13 years old. Everybody laughs at me wanting to learn to dance.

Learn to dance, by all means. Go to dancing class, or get somebody who knows how, to teach you. You are neither too old nor too heavy—in fact, you are just getting to an interesting age, when a woman can be most charming.

You didn't have much time to be young, if you married at 13. Begin to be young now. Your husband probably wants you to be more of a companion to him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am 17 and going with two fellows. One is rich and he takes me to many social doings, but is sometimes not very pleasant to me. The other is handsome, always goodhearted and seems to love me most. How can I tell which one loves me best?

ANXIOUS.
A man who loves a girl is always considerate of her and tries to make life as happy as possible for her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Are Norfolk suits becoming to stout girls? (2) How should a girl entertain a fellow? (3) Is millinery a good trade? (4) Is it wrong for a girl to ask a boy to come and see her? (5) When a boy and girl want to get married, but are of different religions, and neither wants to give up, what do you advise? (6) What is a nice way to tell a boy not to take your arm?

MISS CURIOUS.
(1) No. (2) Be informed on topics of general interest, so you can converse intelligently with him. Have some quiet parlor games for two—you can find them in the stores. Most men like music and refreshments. (3) Yes. (4) She can invite him to call. (5) They had better give up any idea of marrying. (6) You might say, very nicely, "Please don't."

isn't proper, you know, and we want to be quite proper."

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Last March I got acquainted with a pretty girl of 17 and am very much in love with her. I used to visit her and take her buggy riding, but when I told her I loved her and wanted her to be my wife she refused me. Have just seen her twice since then and she acted very cold to me. How can I make her love me? I am 28 and of good manners. My uncle wants me to marry another whom I know, but the very idea makes me sick. (2) My mother was half Indian and my father Welsh. How much Indian am I?

BROKEN-HEARTED COWBOY.
(1) If she doesn't love you and you press your attentions upon her, she will dislike you very much. But you might ask her if you can't be just friends. If she consents be big-brotherly to her. Always be patient and considerate and try to make life happy for her. She is quite able to impress your devotion upon her. Certainly do not marry any girl you don't love. (2) Not enough to count.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a woman of 25, married 6 years and have a little boy 2 1/2 years old. My husband is very jealous of me and will not let me go home to see my folks unless he goes along. He is a railroad man and cannot get off whenever he asks, so I do not see my folks as often as I wish. Tell me what to do.

the pie and will not burn and flake off like paper does.

Use paper plates when serving the children's luncheon on busy days. Use a paper plate to hold potato peeling and kitchen scraps, instead of tin; then burn plate and all and have one thing less to wash.

Use a paper plate when feeding the dog or cat. It's more cleanly.

Pretty Hanging Basket.

A beautiful, inexpensive hanging basket can be made by cutting off a good-sized carrot about four inches from the top; hollow out the cut end to form a sort of cup, put a small stick through the carrot and hang top down in a sunny window.

Keep the carrot filled with water, and in a short time the beautiful fern-like leaves will appear and grow up over the carrot. Try this now, and have an attractive bit of green in your window this winter.

To Save Gas When Cooking.

To save gas and washing of saucepans, sometimes I cook carrots and potatoes together.

Carrots have to be put on about one-half hour sooner. When both are done I take potatoes out and fry over, or mash, or use as salt potatoes. Make carrots as liked. Sometimes I cream both of them together. Makes a pleasant change. Add a little sugar to cream sauce; improves taste.

When making cocoa I use double boiler. In top part I make cocoa: One level teaspoon cocoa to each cup; use one cup water to three cups of milk.

Before I start to mix cocoa I put on some water in bottom part and put some chestnuts in. When cocoa is done chestnuts are nicely cooked. When eating chestnuts put little salt on. They are very nice, meaty and much easier to digest than roasted. Don't spit chestnuts previous to boiling or they get soggy.

The Table.

Bull Moose Buns—Cream half cup lard and one-fourth cup butter with half cup brown sugar. One cup milk, two eggs (yolks and whites beaten separately), half cup currants and a little nutmeg. Add flour enough to make very stiff, into which has been sifted two tea-poons cream tartar and one of soda. Drop mixture by large spoon in well shallow pans. Thumb Cake—One cup sugar, piece of butter size of thumb, two eggs, 1 1/2 cups flour, one teaspoon soda, half cup sour milk, one teaspoon cream of tartar, C. D.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURER'S ADDRESS

REV. WILLIAM P. MCKENZIE OF CAMBRIDGE, MASS., SPEAKS AT OPERA HOUSE SUNDAY.

RELIGION OF REASON

As Opposed to Theoretical and Dogmatical Creeds Which Men Inherit—Problems Explained.

"A Present Redemption" was the subject of the address delivered by the Rev. William P. McKenzie of Cambridge, Mass., member of the board of lectureship of the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston at the Myers theatre Sunday afternoon. Miss Julia S. Lovejoy introduced the speaker who said in part:

"The liberation or redemption of man implies that he is enabled to pass through the door of hope into enjoyment of that which he hoped for. Through enlightened faith the things hoped for become substantial, and the joy that was visioned becomes present experience.

"Where men have inherited their religious beliefs there is found opinionative, or theoretical Christianity; but the basis of happiness in this life is practical and individually earned Christianity independent of tradition, having for its keynote demonstration and spiritual understanding. Christian Science teaches men through reason and revelation. Reason replaces opinion since it leads back always to cause. Revelation replaces dogma because it always brings 'light.' When man walks in light understanding the law which governs him and obeying it, he is at peace.

"No one should deny that the cures of disease wrought by Jesus exhibited causation, and so were scientific. These were results of healing. This power existed then at the standpoint of causation. Christian Science declares that all the power which then existed does now exist at the standpoint of causation and by effects already made manifest, it is proving this.

"Causation is itself invisible, but effects show its nature. The healing wrought by Jesus was so kindly, so blessed, that men glorified God the unseen cause. Today men are beholding results which can come only from a source divine and loving and are becoming acquainted with the true God thereby. The healing of the sick through Christian Science is accomplished by the law and potency understood by Jesus, and it has this test, and sign, that those healed by its ministry find their lives glorified with love for God, and the inner gladness is reflected in universal kindness.

"Christian Science introduces a man into the comradeship of the noble and upright men of all times. It shows him that the saints of God and the heroes of the faith are his own people if he is willing to accept the same law, obey to same power, love the same ideal. So far as the divine nature is concerned we have access always, everywhere, to God. The lost man is the one who has forgotten God, not one whom God has forgotten. We have access to divine law, we 'listen to the thoughts of God,' only by obedience. Of this obedience and its results there are notable examples. We value the writings of the Old and New Testaments because we have therein the story of men and women who solved life's problems aright. They were successful in proportion as they understood God's law, and had faith in its operation.

"The initiation of Mrs. Eddy's discovery of Christian Science was an experience of healing, the story of which is now familiar to the world.

"The Discoverer of Christian Science recognized that her experience of healing was due to the fundamental law whereby healing had been done by Jesus and his disciples and she determined to find out the meaning and application of that law, so that it might be available for others. She sought for the desired explanation in the Scriptures, and this was the proper source to turn to. Take the Gospels for example; what do we find recorded there? Is it not works of healing. The acts of the Apostles were acts of healing. In the records of the Law and in the testimony of the Prophets we are told of healing. Were we to abstract healing from our Scriptures their value as revelation of God to man would be diminished inconceivably. It was natural then that one who had had an experience of healing should turn to a series of writings which tell about healing in order to find an explanation of that healing. In this respect Mrs. Eddy was equipped as an interpreter better than any commentator who had preceded her. Previous writers on the Bible went to it as to an arsenal to find weapons of defense, and of offense, for the support of their accepted opinions. Hence the hundreds of theories regarding the teaching of the Bible, and the numerous denominations founded in variant opinions. If an understanding of truth is supported by the demonstration which corresponds to the truth, then in all conditions it will prove to be the same truth; whereas unsupported opinions may vary with ever veering beliefs. She started with the demonstration, and discovered the truth which explained the demonstration to be the same truth to which the prophets of old, the disciples of Jesus and the Master himself bare witness. (Science and Health, 126:22.)

"The founding of Christian Science has involved the building up of a vast educational system. A world-wide Church through its many branches offers religious teaching at its services. By means of a Bible lesson interpreted into the method for practice of the truth by the Christian Science textbook, consistent instruction is given. Then at the mid-week testimony meeting the results of the teaching in Christianizing human lives become known, as grateful people tell of their redemption from disease and despair.

"Healing is the important proof to man that God is love. Said the Psalmist, 'I had fainted unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.' This proof appeared occasionally before the advent of the Messiah, but in the life and work of Christ Jesus this proof was established scientifically. He proved by his works what God is, and by visible effects illustrated the action of divine law. Critics and skeptics have denied these works, saying that the story of them grew up as myths, accumulated about the character of the hero. But Christian Science has come to re-establish by proof the truth given by the founder of Christianity; and today there are multitudes of men who have learned to love God because the fact that 'He first loved us' has become known to them through healing.

"In medical practice healing of the sick may be the end sought. In Christian Science practice it is the beginning of work and the end in view is complete redemption of the man. When he learns to overcome evil with good, he opposes good-will to malice, kindness to insult, friendship to hatred, and so dwells in peace and happiness. He is a man redeemed from the power of a false theory, and initiated into the joys of the kingdom of heaven. When love depends upon conditions it is merely personal preference, but when it flows from the divine source, outward conditions do not affect its character or continuance. Loving is living, for thus is divine life expressed."

SALADS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

THE salad is a time-worn specialty which is introduced between acts in order to interrupt eager guests who act as if there wouldn't be anything after the meat course but the finger bowls. It is served on individual plates, and is usually eaten with the wrong fork.

The salad is always worked into a meal at the precise moment when stout male guests begin to wonder if their dress suits will stand the strain. It makes a welcome hiatus and stimulates the flow of conversation on the part of people who do not know whether they should use a spoon or a fork.

The simplest form of salad is made of unadorned lettuce, ornamented with the palid form of the hard-boiled egg. This salad has to be attacked with great vigor, as it is an agile and slippery preparation and is harder to eat gracefully than spaghetti. Many a man has stabbed desperately at a lettuce salad without securing a foothold, in the effort to keep up with somebody who was rounding into the home stretch.

The fruit salad is a high-class stimulant which some people feel of gingerly and then glide away from with a guilty look. Very few people can eat somebody's first attempt at a fruit salad without wishing that they had gone to the skating rink or some other social function.

The average salad is not meant to palliate the appetite, but is thrown in as a scenic effect. It enables the hostess to show some original hand-painted china and thus arouse the envy of the neighbors, who eat the salad and then tip up the plate to see if the Haviland brand is on the back.

Salad is not indigenous to the homes of the common people, and when it is served at a company dinner the husband is liable to take it for a new kind of dessert. It is getting so, however, that it comes as part of the regular equipment and is no longer an object of suspicion.

SAINTS NOT PERFECT AND FAULTLESS MEN

HAD FAILINGS AND BLEMISHES, TEMPTATIONS AND TRIALS
COMMONLY MET.

POWERFUL IN FAITH

Kept Alive The Claims of The True
God on Men's Spirits Against Idolatry of The Time.

"The saint is not a faultless creature, either himself or in his methods," said the Rev. Father Henry Willmann, in his morning sermon for All Saints Sunday. "When we study the lives of a Jephthah, a Samson, a Gideon, with all their strange and grotesque and even forbidding incidents and read that these men were the saints of whom the world was not worthy, the idea of an orderly, meek, resigned, religious life is from the nature of the case far enough off. The real work that these saints did was to help with all their varied gifts, talents and opportunities to keep alive the claims of the true Lord on men's spirits against the idolatries of the time in which they lived."

The Rev. Willmann took his text from Hebrews, eleventh chapter, thirty-second to thirty-fourth verses. "And what more shall I say? For the time would fail me to tell of Gideon, and of Barak, and of Samson, and of Jephthah, of David also, and of Samuel, and of the prophets. Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouth of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens."

"God's revelation is framed from end to end in the example and lives of men, their characters and their careers. Patriarchs, judges, kings, poets, prophets pass before us in order. They are entrusted with messages from God, with successive revelations of His will; but if we had not their biographies, frankly, freely told, nothing extenuated, and nothing set down in malice, to illustrate and command those messages and revelations, how poor we should be, how great our loss. No, we cannot conceive how the Bible could have been the Bible were it not written in the lives of men, with all their triumphs and disasters, all their strength and weakness. Every heavenly grace, such as love, is revealed to us in the persons of those who live. Theological mysteries, such as faith, is illustrated in the lives of those who had it. The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews finds no more sure and satisfactory means of explaining what faith is than in naming the men of old times, who owed to the secret of their power. By faith, Abel, by faith, Enoch, by faith, Noah, won this or that victory over themselves or the world. And instead of apologizing for filling his pages with the praise of men, he only regrets that he has not space for more."

"Time would fail me to tell of Gideon, of Barak, and Samson, of David and Samuel and the prophets." He even implies that even these are but simple examples of all those (of whom the world was not worthy), who in a generation, absorbed in its private interests and lusts, breathing the low atmosphere of an earthly life, were separate from the world in this, that they were fighting for an ideal, driven on by passionate faith in the God of Israel. Through faith they were subduing kingdoms, and "out of weakness were made strong."

This passage we all remember, is from out of the lesson for the Festival of All Saints, the Octave of which we are keeping today and very precious it is in that connection as helping us to keep our conception of the saintly function, large and broad. It is very helpful to be forced to recognize persons, the most various in character and temperament, as saints in powers and opportunities as saints—saints with all their failings and blemishes—saints, as the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews classes them, by virtue of the aim set before them, the steadfastness with which they pursued it, the utter self-abnegation by which they recognize that God's kingdom in this world has been, in all times, advanced by men, in whom, many of those ways of men, we have come to call specially "saintly," were conspicuously absent. He chooses his specimens from what appears to us the rudest, roughest, most lawless period of Jewish history—when the manners of men, however ardent they were to defend the cause of the true God, could not have had the repose which we call saintly, the type we most naturally call saintly, the calm, the meditative, the devotional. When we study the lives of a Jephthah, a Samson, a Gideon, with all their strange and grotesque and even forbidding incidents, and read that these men were the saints of whom the world was not worthy, the idea of an orderly, meek, resigned religious life is from the nature of the case far enough off.

Certain associations have gathered about the phrase, the religious life which will suit the character and career of a Samson—yet his critic in our text includes him as living such a life, merely because he worked and suffered to keep alive the idea and the authority of a true God, a God of purity and righteousness, when all the allurements of idolatry were all around, drawing men away with a fearful destructive force. The career of a Gideon impresses us indeed as that of a fearless soldier, possessed by an enthusiasm for God. He comes in truth nearer home to our sympathies, for we have known of such soldiers, saints in ages very near our own. But the real work he did, and the real work all these men did, is told more clearly by something that happened after his death, than by all that we read of his personal actions. His biographer tells us the most significant fact: "And it came to pass as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again and went worshiping after Baalim, and made Baal-berith their God."

"This is what the men called saints do for their own generation, and for all generations, unless they utterly pass out of men's memories and records. They help with all their varied gifts, talents, opportunities, to keep alive the claims of the true Lord on men's spirits, against the idolatries of the time in which they live. This is the bond which unites and harmonizes all these various personalities which makes in the centuries before Christ and the centuries after this it is which stamps and defines the one quality of the saint, and the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews calls it faith."

He calls it faith, and his clear object is to show its identity with the power bearing the same name, which Jesus Christ had brought with him, as His greatest gift to men—"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even your faith." Faith, the one essential bond between saint and saint; whatever, the writer insists, this course he took. He interpreted and commended the faith which Christ taught, by the faith of those ancient times, to show that the two were identical, and given to men for an identical purpose. New and fuller revelations had indeed come to men; faith was furnished with a wider and deeper outlook, but its mission was the same always, to enable men to live above the world, and to win the world to follow them.

"The time would fail me to tell of Gideon, of Barak, of Samson, and Jephthah." It is impossible to mistake the significant language in which this writer gives account again and again to the one quality—which unites together all these discordant elements into one bond of saintly work. He defines faith in terms independent of all theology, ancient or modern, and never to be affected by any changes in human knowledge or of union. He makes that definition as wide, as all embracing as it can be. Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Nothing can be simpler. It is the acting upon a conviction of things we do not see, as if we did see them, and from the truth of them by tests more certain than eyesight. And immediately after he adds another fragment of description which shall still further serve to keep true faith distinct from all counterfeits: "He that cometh to God, must believe that God is, and that he is the rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." Now the first of these utterances, if we really accept them, should keep our idea of the saint large, if that is to say, the saint is a man or woman who keeps his or her faith unshaken in the midst of a faithless world. It began by saying that our natural bias is to attach to certain forms and expressions of holiness, the name of saintly; and the scripture (for All Saints most wisely) brings together side by side, the most opposite or rather, all the complimentary aspects of the saintly life, while in the lesson we are reminded of Gideon, in the Gospel we are referred to the gentler, more passive graces of the saint. "Blessed are the meek, blessed are the poor in spirit, blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness." Here is the saintly type after our own heart, we do with our heart and soul recognize in such as these the reflection and holiness and purity of God. It is only when we turn from these to the saints who seem so little like them, in the book of Judges, that we need the larger definition of saint as one who has faith while the world has none, to keep us from confusion and disillusion. We know, indeed, no more of a man like Samson, than the stirring record of his outward fortunes—but if the saint be the meek, the student of holiness, the seeker after righteousness, who shall reconcile the two conceptions. No one save the clue which the writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews gives us: "Faith the one touch of grace that makes all servants of God, kin. Not alone by faith do men subdue kingdoms; not only by faith do they overcome their enemies; by faith also they overcome the world. In fighting for others' salvation or their own, they are alike doing the saint's office and are true to the work given them to do, which is different for every man. And all alike must suffer—suffering is the badge of all their tribe; faith the starting point; suffering the inevitable condition. These are the saints for all whether it be a Gideon fighting for a God of Israel, against Baalim, or the mourner of his own sin or weakness in loneliness in the midnight hours. Let neither of these deny to his fellow the name of saint or the ministry of saintliness. Each as his work to do; each does it imperfectly and through failures, disappointments and humiliations, the saint is not a faultless creature, either in himself or his methods. He believes the something which the world does not believe and lives above the world, and of him, the world is not worthy."

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, Nov. 4.—The members of the Portage Club, held a Halloween social at the home of Mrs. Robert Marsh Thursday evening. Each member came dressed as ghost and there was much guessing to find out just who was who. A course supper was served. A fine time was reported.

Miss Gertrude Livingstone is home from Fort Atkinson for over Sunday. Miss Mildred McCulloch is visiting at C. B. Merrifields.

Miss Marie Paul is visiting friends at Eau Claire.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Frink went to Walworth last night to stay over Sunday.

Elmer Rogers and family have moved in the rooms over Kelly and Stockman's store.

E. M. Holston spent Thursday evening at Walworth.

Peace in the Home.

First of all, peace should be practiced at home. There we must not take offense at the hasty word or flash of anger. Put those with the things you cannot remember.

Skeleton of Queer Animal.

In excavating for a sewer at Seneca Falls, N. Y., a skeleton five feet long with 14-inch legs, was discovered. The head resembles that of a horse.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED BY A DERAILMENT

Derailment of Switch Engine Near Caloric Plant Tied up Traffic
On Interurban Sunday.

Traffic on the Rockford & Interurban railway between this city and Beloit was blocked for about four hours Sunday morning by the derailment of switch engine 214 on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad's spur track which crosses the interurban company's line near the factory of the Caloric company. The engine, which was being used for switching service to the factories in the southern part of the city, left the rails on the crossing, and the tender was thrown across the rails. It was about four hours before the wrecking crew put the engine and tender back on the tracks again. Passengers from this city were carried to the Caloric plant by the Janesville Traction company's cars, and transferred to the interurban cars, and incoming passengers were brought into the city by the street cars. Engineer Wilson and Fireman Hackshaw were working on the switch engine, but were not injured, nor was the switch engine badly damaged, as the accident was not of a serious nature.

ROCK PRAIRIE

Rock Prairie, Nov. 4.—Rev. Catchpole of Janesville, preached at the U. P. church Sunday. A congregational meeting was held after the services. Later announcements will be made for next Sunday.

Mrs. T. G. McCannery is confined to her home by illness.

A large audience heard the lecture "The Footprints of the Centuries," by Col. G. A. Gearhart at the U. P. church last Sunday night. All agree that it was one of the best lectures ever given here.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Saunders are going to move to the Chas. Docker farm.

Nearly twenty young people gave John Mair a pleasant surprise last Tuesday evening, in honor of his birthday.

Not much change was noticed in the manner of observing Halloween. Miss Zea Zinn of Cairo, Illinois, was a week end guest at the home of Miss Jean Hadden.

Several of our people attended the Equal Suffrage League meeting at Avalon, last Thursday.

Miss Grace Younghouse who was visiting a few days on the Prairie has returned to her home in Janesville.

A number of our young people attended the W. C. T. U. social at Jas. Fetherstone's last Thursday evening.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WE MUST FORGET.

The Titanic! You have not forgotten how the great liner on the 15th day of April crashed into the iceberg that fared forth from the frozen north and of how it slid, like a great coffin, holding its 1,700 dead, down to the beasts and the ooze of the sea, two miles below.

Nor of how the captain of millions and the peasant stood together at the rail as the cruel sea carried off their loves and hopes.

But already it is a dim memory. Just as that vast iceberg in the middle of the north Atlantic, towering up 500 feet like a great monument to the dead below, had drifted into warmer waters and melted, so after the first shock of the shuddering plunge of the Titanic was over—so swift does one we tread upon another's heels—are we beginning to forget.

Violent emotion, great sympathy, quick forgetfulness—these are the features of our modern life.

Some there are who never will forget.

The memory of the ship's tragedy has burned into their consciousness a scar that will not disappear, but in the general consciousness the thought is as unmindful as the waves above the dead.

We are like children.

Scarcely have the tears dried from our eyes than the smiles appear. As when the Titanic went down and the waves closed together above it, making smooth waters, so do we forget.

Let us forget!

Go to the steamship ticket offices. Will you not find the same surging crowds? And even today over the treacherous waters tourists lounge on the decks and the owners of dancing feet find pleasures.

It is only the surface of our recollections that gets printed by the day's events, and tomorrow's new impression wipes it out.

Some things ought not to be forgotten—the criminal carelessness of the ship's owners, the gambling with death, the taking of chances to save money, the speed mania. All these should be remembered, and there should be exemplary punishment, but—humanity must forget!

We cannot always go mourning with regret. Mercifully are our memories made like children's slates from which may be wiped the horror of cataclysm and cruel visitation.

And so the peasant builds his cottage on the verge while the enter's lip is warm. And so the smooth sea smiles, and—

We forget.

We must forget!

EDNA GOODRICH TO BE MARRIED AGAIN?

Edna Goodrich.

There is a rumor abroad that Edna Goodrich, the best divorced wife of Nat Goodwin, is soon to marry Ralph Herz, the comedian. Miss Goodrich is playing in vaudeville engagements in Toronto, Can. Herz was the husband of Lulu Glaser until she divorced him in Chicago last January on grounds of cruelty.

Talking Good for Her.

It has been estimated by a famous statistician that a woman talks eight times as much as a man; that she utters on an average 2,500 sentences a day, whereas only 300 come from him. These figures may not be accurate, but the fact remains that the woman who is a great talker is invariably robust and full-chested.

Saving Patent Leather.

Patent leather shoes and slippers will last twice as long if you wipe them off occasionally with a soft cloth that has been wrung out of olive oil. Keep the cloth in a small tin box, one that has a cover, and the oil will last a long time.

Useless Embellishment.

A lazy man has about the same opinion of efficiency that an octogenarian has of a ribbon on a cane.

Masses Will Still Be Massing.

A soap box orator the other night, at the close of a fervid appeal, wound up with the following lucid and expressive peroration: "And now, comrades, after everything has been said, after everything has been done, the great masses of the people will still constitute the bulk of the population."

Tying a knot is a purely human accomplishment. Now that knots have been discovered in the rings of Saturn its inhabitants can claim considerably higher intelligence than the Martians, who only dig canals.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Preserved by Electricity.

It is noted that the top strands of a wire fence are more apt to rust than those which pass through the dew laden grass. A possible explanation has been offered in the fact that the wires running close to the ground are slightly electrified.

Woman Suffrage?

DO NOT BE MISLED by large newspaper advertisements authorized by the Madison Anti-suffrage Association claiming women do not want to vote. The Madison Anti-Suffrage Association is a mere handful of leisure class women in one city of Wisconsin. All of their advertisements were paid for by James G. Flanders, CORPORATION LAWYER of Milwaukee.

These women need not vote unless they want to.

ON THE OTHER HAND:

80,000 women in Wisconsin have endorsed woman suffrage.

10,000 are working for it actively.

64 out of 72 counties have active suffrage organizations.

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette November 4, 1872. Brief Items: Snow, rain and the other symptoms of the approaching election prevail today. The polls will be opened at nine o'clock in the forenoon tomorrow and close at sundown. Do all your voting between those hours. Court street M. E. church was jammed with people last night. Rev. Huntley seems to be popular. All books belonging to the Y. M. C. A. library are wanted this week. The room will be open tomorrow and Saturday evening. Multituted books, damaged beyond repair, will be replaced by new volumes and a general overhauling of the stock on hand will be necessary. Theatre: Tonight: The Clifford troupe arrived this morning and will open this evening at the opera house with "Married Life" and "Handy Andy." We have already said much in favor of this company, basing our notices on the comments of the press in various Wisconsin cities, and our knowledge of the abilities of Dillon and Clifford. Both are well-known to the citizens, and have, in times gone by, drawn large audiences. The addition of the two popular actresses, Marie Louise and Elia Caranto, gives the troupe a solidity which will contribute largely to the success of their rendition of the popular dramas of the day. Moseley sells reserved seats. State Items: James Frost, aged fourteen years, residing in the town of Lamartine, was kicked by a horse nearly two weeks ago. His skull was crushed and some of the brains discharged, yet he is alive, in his right mind, and can talk and eat. The United States coast survey party who have been encamped at Kenosha for some time past, took their departure last week. Symptoms of approaching cold and wet weather are spurring up building operations in Green Bay. of the Sea, from whom it is hard to get free—he rides you in spite of your screams; he rides you when you are awake and fills you with sorrow and ache, and gallops you round in your dreams. He gives you an ugly renown, and spreads it all over the town, and brings you, a harvest of sneers; he takes all the joy from your life, brings shame to your children and wife, and splatters your cottage with tears. So keep out of debt if you can; steer clear of the creditor man—and this you can do if you try; it's better to live in a keg, and feed on an onion or egg, than eat an unsettled for pie!

Of all the dark bogies that scare, and keep you a-tearing your hair, and walking the floor in a sweat, of all the dire perils you know, whose pinions are reeking with woe, there's nothing so dreadful as debt. The fellow in debt never knows the meaning of peace and repose; there's always a wait at his door; it's better on live to dine than revel in oysters and wine, the which have been charged at the store. It's better to wear your old duds and live on a diet of spuds, for which you have paid out DEBT the mon, than dress like a duke or an earl, and feed from a platter of pearl, and always expecting a dun. ### FRAIL, SICKLY CHILD

Restored To Health By Vinol—A Letter to Mothers.

Anxious mothers often wonder why their children are so pale, thin and nervous and have so little appetite. For the benefit of such mothers in this vicinity we publish the following letter.

J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn., says: "My little daughter ever since her birth had been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worry. Several months ago we commenced to give her Vinol. I immediately noted an improvement in her health and appearance, and from the good it has done her I can truly say it will do all you claim."

This child's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements extracted from cod's livers, combined with the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol.

Vinol will build up and strengthen delicate children, old people, and the weak, run-down and debilitated. We return the money in every case where it fails. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSETTE" ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

COPYRIGHT 1905 BY THE SPOON-PENNY CO.

"How indeed?"

"And what does she want of me?"

"That," roughly, "you will find out!"

and stepped down the hall, followed by the soldiers, mountebank and dwarf, the last of whom took leave of them at the door.

Clear was the night; the stars, like liquid drops about to fall, caressed with silvery rays the granite piles.

In contrast to the noisome atmosphere of the prison, faint perfumes, borne from some flowery slope of the distant shore, swept languorously in and out the open aisles and passages of the Mount. In such an hour that upper region seemed to belong entirely to the sky; to partake of its wondrous stillness; to share its mysteries and its secrets. Like intruders, penetrating an enchanted spot, now they trod soft shadows; then, clanking, beat beneath foot delicate laceworks of light.

"Here we are!" The officer stopped.

At the same time upon a nearby balcony a nightingale began to sing, tentatively, as if trying the scope and quality of its voice. "You are to go in!" he announced abruptly.

"Such a fine palace! I—I would rather not!" muttered the fellow, as they crossed an outer threshold and proceeded to mount some polished stairs.

"Stubborn dolt. Now in you march," pausing before a door. "But, hark you! I and my men remain without.

So, mind your behavior, or—" A look from the commandant completed the sentence.

Alone, in an apartment of the palace, some moments later, the mountebank's demeanor underwent a quick change; he glanced hastily toward the door the commandant had closed in leaving, and then, with sudden brightening gaze, around him, as if making note of every detail of his surroundings. Set with columns of warm-hued marble, relieved with ornate carvings and designs, the spacious chamber presented an appearance at once graceful and charming. Nor chamber presented an appearance at once graceful and charming. Nor he spoke glanced and moved a little toward the window.

My lady stood as if dazed. He, the Black Seigneur, there, in the palace!

Mechanically she raised her hand to her breast; she was very pale. On the balcony the nightingale, grown confident, burst into a flood of variations; a thousand trills and full-throated notes filled the room.

"I understand now," at length she found voice, "why that fancy came to me below, when I was listening to the play on the platform. But why have you come to the very Mount itself?"

Her voice trembled a little. "You!

On the beach the people tried to stop you—"

"You saw that, too?"

"And you knew the play would make trouble? You wanted it to," quickly. "For what purpose? To get into the upper part of the Mount? To have them arrest—bring you here?"

She looked at him with sudden terror. "My father! Was it to—"

A low, distinct rapping at the door

she had entered, interrupted them.

She started and looked fearfully around. At the same time the moun-tebank stepped back to the side of a great bronze in front of the balcony, where, standing in the shadow, he was screened.

"Elise!" a voice called out.

The flower girl had been holding fast to the door.

"My—" she began, when the door opened and the Governor stood on the threshold.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Mountebank and the Governor.

In his hand, the Governor held a paper; his usually austere face wore a slightly propitiatory expression, while the eyes he turned upon her,

as slowly he entered the room, suggested a respite of differences. Pausing, he toyed with the missive, turning it around and around in his fingers, as if something in his thoughts were revolving with it. Had he been more watchful of her, less bent on some matter uppermost in his mind, he could not have failed to mark the pallor of his face, or the agitation written there. As it was, his glance swept without studying.

"I hoped to find you here," he began complacently; "hoped that you had not yet retired."

She made some faint response, but her voice, despite herself, wavered.

Whereupon his look sharpened; then almost immediately relaxed; constraint on her part could easily be accounted for; not many hours had elapsed since their last interview.

"Yes," he continued, "I have here to consider, indicating a paper he held,

"a rather important matter." He waited a moment before adding: "A matter that concerns you."

"That concerns me?" Her hands tightened.

"Yes."

"Since it is important," she said hastily, "would it not—shall we not leave it until tomorrow? I—I am rather tired tonight, and—"

"What?" he returned in the same unruffled tone. "Would you postpone considering the command of the King?"

"Command!" she repeatedly nervously.

"Of the King?"

"Or request," which is the same."

"But—" she began, and stopped;

held by a sound, as of some one moving, near the window.

"Shall I read it, or—"

She had started to look behind her;

but abruptly caught herself, and seemed about to frame some irrelevant response, when his voice went on: "The King desires to change the date set for your marriage with his kinsman, the Marquis de Beauvilliers."

"Change?" she echoed.

"Yes; to hasten it." If the Governor had expected from her hostility, or perverseness, he was agreeably disappointed; the girl evinced neither pleasure nor disapproval; only stood in the same attitude of expectancy, with head half turned.

"His Majesty's reasons for this step—"

"Can't we—can't we, at least, postpone considering them?"

Again he regarded her more closely.

"What better time than the present?"

"But I don't want—"

"Elise!" A slight frown appeared on his brow. "His Majesty," once more looking at the paper, "hints at an important political appointment he desires to confer on the Marquis de

Beauvilliers which would take him abroad; but whether as ambassador, or as governor in the colonies, his Majesty does not disclose. Obviously, however, the bestowing of the honor—

a high one, no doubt!—depends on his early marriage, and a wife to grace the position. The letter."

weighing it, "is a tentative one; the courteous precursor of a fuller communication when he has learned our—your—pleasure."

She did not at once express it;

indeed, at the moment, seemed scarcely to have comprehended; her glance, which had swept furtively behind

when he was studying the document, returned more uneasily to his; but not before he had caught the backward look.

"Well?" he said with a touch of as-perity. "Well?" he repeated, when his gaze, following the direction hers had taken, paused.

Although well lighted in the center

by a great Venetian candelabrum, the far ends of the spacious hall lay somewhat in obscurity; notably the space adorned with tropical plants and a life-size bronze before the entrance to the balcony. It was on this dim recess the Governor permitted his eye to rest; at first casually; then

Dinner Noddy

"George! If you kiss me again I'll call the dog!"

"Well, if you're one of these women that kiss dogs, I don't want to."

Old Newton, a well-known London magistrate, once had a crazy street-preacher before him, charged with obstructing the thoroughfare. He saw that he was a harmless imbecile, and, being a kind-hearted man, did not feel like punishing him, so he said: "Of course, we can't have thoroughfares obstructed in this way; but if you can give me the name of a friend who will be your surety that there will be no recurrence of this nuisance, I'll discharge you."

"I have no friend," said the man, "save the Lord."

"Quite so," said old Newton, "but I mean a friend who is a shareholder in London."

"The Lord," said the man, "is everywhere."

"Certainly," said Newton, as he took a fresh pinch of snuff and twisted his brow: "but I must trouble you for a surety—well, of what I might call a more settled residence."

CU's company was once barnstormed through Virginia. It was at Petersburg and the play was "The Chimney Corner." All through the performance, in distressing silence, neither laughing nor shedding a tear, although "The Chimney Corner" abounds with humor and pathos, and the company then producing it was of great merit for those times. Cuddock appeared to pay no attention to the apathy of his audience until just at the close of the performance. The concluding lines of the play are somewhat to this effect: "You, John, are happy, and so are you, Ellen; so am I, and so are we all. Let us hope that our friends, the public, share our happiness." But to the surprise of everybody, Cuddock fell into a towering passion when he reached these lines, and, in thundering tones, he said: "You John, are happy, and so are you Ellen; so am I, and so are we all, except the fools that have been sitting like sturgeon-bottles in front of the footlights to-night!"

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 42.

To amend Section 3 of Article XI of the Constitution, relating to municipal corporations and their indebtedness.

WHEREAS, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1909, an amendment to the Constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE, THE ASSEMBLY CONCURRING, That Section 3 of Article XI of the Constitution be amended to read:

Section 3. It shall be the duty of the legislature, and they are hereby empowered to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and taxation, and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations. No county, city, town, village, school district or other municipal corporation shall be allowed to become indebted in any manner or for any purpose to any amount, including existing indebtedness, in excess of the sum of one percentum on the value of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness. Any county, city, town, village, school district or other municipal corporation incurring any indebtedness as aforesaid shall, before or at the time of doing so, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within twenty years from the time of contracting the same, except that when such indebtedness is incurred in the acquisition of lands by cities, or by counties having a population of 150,000 or over, for public, municipal purposes, or for the permanent improvement thereof, the city or county incurring the same shall, at the time of so doing, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within a period not exceeding fifty years from the time of contracting the same.

RESOLVED BY THE SENATE, THE ASSEMBLY CONCURRING, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin be, and the same is hereby agreed to by this Legislature.

(No. 28, C.)

The oath so taken, on being corroborated as to the residence and tribal relations of such person by the affidavit of a qualified elector, shall be filed in the office of the clerk before whom it was taken and recorded, and a book to be provided for that purpose, upon such person paying to said clerk the sum of one dollar.

6. No person under guardianship, non compos mentis or insane shall be qualified to vote at any election; nor shall any person convicted of treason or felony be qualified to vote at any election unless restored to civil rights.

Section 2. The question whether the foregoing provisions of this act shall take effect and be in force, shall be submitted to a vote of the people of this state, in the manner provided by law for the submission of an amendment to the constitution, at the next general election to be held in November, 1912. If approved by a majority of all the votes cast on that subject at such election, it shall take effect and be in force from and after such approval by the people; otherwise it shall not take effect or be in force. Upon the ballot shall be printed: "Shall Chapter 227 of the laws of 1911, entitled 'An act extending the right of suffrage to women,' be adopted?"

Section 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Approved June 2, 1911.

THE GREAT RAIN-STORM IN ACT IV, "THE FORTUNE HUNTER," AT MYERS THEATRE, MONDAY, NOV. 4TH.

"THE FORTUNE HUNTER."

Horace Greeley will probably be remembered while American institutions last, and after a long useful life's work in which he held so important a place in the development of his country in the formation of her future; it is doubtful if any of his most heroic efforts will outlive the level headed common sense advice he gave to the young men of his day—"Go West, young man, Go West."

The material and moral worth of that advice while appreciated cannot ever be fully known nor even appreciated. The nearest approach to the valuable lesson of Greeley, as applied to the conditions of our life today is given in the wonderful comedy by Winchell Smith "The Fortune Hunter" which comes to the Myers Theatre on Monday, November 4th, under the direction of Rowland and Clifford, which is sufficient guarantee of the "class" of this attraction. The story of Nat Duncan is one that should be known and its portrayal by Effect of Electricity on Animals.

Scientists have for some years been experimenting on the effects of electricity on crops, but the latest development is the report of the experiments of Prof. Silas Wentworth on the effects of electricity on animals in California. A flock of 3,000 sheep was divided—one-half being placed under the power wires of an electric wire company and the remainder removed from the electrical area. The influence of the electricity is well shown in the fact that the sheep thus specially located produced an average of a fraction over two lambs each, while the ewes living in normal conditions yielded an average of less than one lamb each. The fleeces of the electricity treated sheep were also 20 per cent heavier than those of the others.

Oil the Coming Fuel.

So many advantages in economy and efficiency are offered by the use of oil fuel that its substitution for coal in ships of all classes, both in the merchant marine and in the navies of the world, is making extraordinary advances. This progress is notable in the Pacific trade. Seven new stations for oil supply are to be established on the west coast of South America as links in a chain that will ultimately extend from Tacoma, Wash., to Valparaiso, Chile. Within a few years the American continent from Alaska to Newfoundland will be girdled with such depots.—New York Herald.

Origin of Popular Saying.

The origin of the saying that "it takes nine tailors to make a man" is thought by some to be a corruption of "nine tellers make a man," the "tellers" being another name for "tolls" of a toll. The English custom was to strike three times three tolls or "tellers" on the passing bell for the death of a man. It was three times two for a woman.

One Mistake He Made.

"Your son seems very clear-headed." "Yes; he's a smart boy. Only he made a mistake once. He said, 'Father, now is th' time to fail,' so we failed, and made good money from it. Only if we had waited till th' next week we would have burned out!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

And So Many Do It.

A campaign year is a time of happiness for the man who likes to get at the extreme outer edge of the crowd and yell "Louder!"—Denver Republican.

"KINDLING" PROVES TRUE TO PROMISES

Sarah Padden With Able Support Pleases Two Audiences at Myers Theatre Saturday.

Proving true to the promises of the advance notices and statements of metropolitan critics, "Kindling" as presented by Sarah Padden and an able company, at the Myers theatre, Saturday, was surely a dramatic treat. Two fair sized audiences enjoyed the excellent presentation afternoon and evening.

With a vital story, presenting the child-problem in a form which has not been previously treated, "Kindling" holds the interest to the end and never fails to touch the heart. Tears of sympathy gathered in the eyes of many a one present at the performance Saturday night, at the pathetic yet realistic story of Maggie Schultz, the little wife in the slums whose fear to bring children into the world to face the wretched conditions in which she lived, drove her to desperate action.

Sarah Padden in this role arose at every occasion to the possibilities of her part. On the stage almost throughout the entire play, and the center of the whole plot and action, her role was difficult enough, but the many emotional lines and situations, differing from the tender cooing of love-thoughts to her husband to explosions of anger at the injustice of her lot which forced her to bring children into the world under such squalid conditions of living, made a character very real but very difficult of interpretation.

Around Maggie's dilemma in the threat of her husband that if a child came he would rather kill it than allow it to live under their unhealthy surroundings, and her own mother instinct which prompted her to aid a thief in robbing her philanthropic friend in order to get money to take them west, the story is woven. It throbs with intense human interest with real problems of slum life.

Miss Padden, although easily the strongest member of the cast, was ably supported. The part of Maggie's husband, Heinrich Schultz, was played most capably by Willard Bowman. Lou Ridley as the genial, optimistic Mrs. Bates, gave a genuine interpretation of a whole-souled comedy part. Harry Hamilton as Steve Bates, the bad man of the play, presented cleverly the character of the slum ruffian, while Rose Watson as Mrs. Burke-Smith and Frank Jowers as her business manager, showed the parts of the mess manager, the philanthropic rich, Alice Ringling as the niece of Mrs. Burke-Smith, was charming and clever. She represented the type of social worker who really understands conditions in the slums as they exist and who know how to reach the people living in the tenements.

The whole play is decidedly wholesome and uplifting. It deserved much better support from the citizens of Janesville.
